24 Apply For City Manager

The city council will meet tomorrow to discuss 24 applications received for the city manager's position.

Raymert Miller, city manager since February of 1961, will leave the post April 15, to join the staff of a construction company.

The city has been advertising the vacancy in the International City Management Association newsletter since Miller submitted his resignation, Feb. 8.

Miller said the council will weed out applicants before making contact with the men for interviews.

He said he thought the council could have a manager selected by April 15, but because of the lack of time doubted the man could be in the office by then. In that case, Bill Whitlock, assistant city manager, probably will manage affairs until the new manager arrived, Miller said.

New Public Defender Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A new version of a public defender bill is now ready for Senate debate but it is far down on the calendar.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved it Wednesday as a substitute for a bill already passed by the House. It would require public defenders to handle felonies in circuits over 75,000 population with court appointed attorneys handling the cases of indigent defendants in small circuits.

Earlier the Senate passed and sent to the House a bill which provided for court appointed attorneys as counsel for indigents, to work for a fee set by the courts.

The Supreme Court has ruled that after Sept. 1 it will no longer require court appointed attorneys to defend indigents for nothing, leaving the problem for the legislature to solve.

Wednesday afternoon the Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to increase the pay of the secretary of state from $20,000 to $25,000 a year.

It killed a bill that would have allowed banks in third class counties to set up banking facilities beyond the city limits in small towns 10 miles away. Opponents said it was a step toward branch banking.

Four-Year Governor Term

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate gave first round approval today to a constitutional amendment that would go back to the old limitation of one four-year term for a governor.

The vote was 15-11, three short of the 18 that will be needed when the proposal comes up for passage later.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, DHillsboro, a Democratic candidate for governor, sponsored the proposal. He said giving a governor the right to succeed himself had turned out to be a mistake, as shown by the second term of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Blackwell charged the twoterm plan "gives the executive far too much power," including tremendous power over the appointment of judges, heads of state agencies and members of state commissions.

He charged Hearnes had become a dictator, twisting the arms of legislators to get his bills passed. He predicted that if the people were given a chance to vote on the issue again, they would return to the one-term limitation.

May 22 Nixon-Moscow Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will leave May 22 for Moscow to hold summit talks with Soviet leaders, the White House announced today.

Nixon, the White House said, will discuss with the Soviets "all major issues with a view toward further improving bilateral relations and enhancing the prospects for world peace."

The White House statement was issued simultaneously here and in Moscow.

Nixon said last Oct. 12 he would go to Moscow after his historic trip last month to mainland China.

The White House gave no indication as to the length of Nixon's stay in the Russian capital. However, it is expected the duration will be about the same as it was in China—one week.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the exact number of days for the visit was still being discussed. But he said, "I think you could assume that the visit will last about a week."

Mrs. Nixon will accompany the President as she did when her husband, then vice president in the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, first visited Moscow.

It was on that trip that Nixon engaged in his historic "kitchen debate" with then Soviet Premier, the late Nikita Khrushchev.

The brief statement announcing the departure date said: As had been announced previously, Nixon's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers will accompany him on the trip.

Absentee Ballots Ready

Absentee ballots for Tuesday's city primary election may be picked up at City Clerk John Vaughn's office. The ballots must be returned to his office by 4:30 p.m. Monday.

The absentee ballots will be opened and counted on Tuesday morning. The ballot will include the names of seven council candidates vying for a spot on the April 4 ballot. No absentee ballots have been filed in Vaughn's office.

Voters in the election will select four candidates, two for each seat open.

Candidates listed on the ballot will be W.A. Alliston, Jr., Kenneth Bridges, Virginia M. Waters, Theon E. Grojean, Jr., Bill Ryan, Eulalene Morris, and Frank Ferrell.

Three Arrests For Breakins

CHARLESTON — Felix Ray Jr., 17, James Owens Jr., 17, and Frederick Williams, 19, all of East Prairie, were arrested at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday by Mississippi County Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons and Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie following a 10-day investigation into a series of breakins in Mississippi county.

Simmons said charges of breaking, entering, and stealing are expected to be filed this afternoon and bonds set.

Statements were signed by the trio, Simmons said, admitting these breakins and thefts in East Prairie: Winchester Chevrolet, Jackson's Service Station, Bright's Feed Store, McTigue Construction Co, Mobil Station, and the East Prairie high school.

The three, the sheriff said, admitted to breaking into Galemore Motors and the Mississippi County Bowling Lanes in Charleston and Blumenberg Service Station in Anniston.

The youths admitted to taking eight or 10 stereos and tapes from cars, Simmons said. Some items have been recovered and efforts to recover others are being made.

$8,000 Doniphan Theft

DONIPHAN — Thieves entered a doctor's office and drug store between 10:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. last night and took $8,000 in drugs and other items.

According to the highway patrol, the breakin occurred in a building occupied by Dr. Gene Leroux and the City Drug Store.

About $6,000 worth of Cameras, electric shavers, watches, alarm clocks, drugs, razors, and other items was stolen from the drug store.

About $2,000 in drugs was taken from the doctor's office.

Weight Collapsed Bridge

IT IS TOO COLD for a swim was probably the thought of Steve Ferrell and Mike Berry. They plunged off a bridge four miles northeast of Miner. The Ferrell Coal Company dump truck was loaded with dirt at the time. Neither was hurt as the rotting bridge collapsed into the Wolf Hole ditch.

Charleston R-1 School Board Hires Counsel

CHARLESTON -- The R-1 board of education Wednesday night voted to employ Joslyn and Joslyn as legal counsel for the district at a retaining fee of $1,800 for 12 months.

The firm was represented at the meeting by Albert Tindall.

Herbert Marshall, board director, requested that it be a matter of record that he had talked with High School Principal Sherrill Summitt explaining his position on Marshall's statement recorded in the minutes of the Feb. 18 board meeting. Marshall told Summitt that he still had an obligation to the district if Summitt stayed in his position and he was still going to have a lot of trouble.

Marshall said Summitt told him he was looking for another position and if he found a suitable one he would leave, but if he did not, he expected the district to honor his contract.

The board heard a report from Terry Rowe on education for the handicapped.

A tentative calendar for the 1972-73 school year, recommended by Superintendent Tom Wells, was approved.

A letter from the Cairo high school principal and head football coach requesting the renewal of the annual Shrine football charity classic game was read. The board voted to give permission to schedule Friday night football games and basketball games with Cairo.

Three representatives from window manufacturers demonstrated their products. Bids from the companies on windows for the junior high school building were taken but will be opened later.

$400,000 Pickup

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri State Highway Department set another record in 1971, spending $495,802 picking up after litterbugs along the state's highways.

Tomas A. David, director of highways, noted that costs of trash pickup have exceeded $400,000 for the past five years.

"We keep hoping all this concern being voiced for the quality of the environment will take hold," David said. "But it doesn't seem to have affected highway littering.

"We all agree that littering is a bad thing; still, people go ahead and do it anyway. Not maliciously, I'm sure, but just without thinking."

Costs were particularly high in St. Louis, $25,550, St. Louis County $76,546, and Jackson County, $60,950.

The highway department urged motorists to keep litterbags in their cars, and will furnish them free. Officials also urged interested groups to volunteer the manpower to clean up the highway rights-of-way and said plastic bags and trucks would be furnished by the department.

Hammer Victim Improving

Mrs. Beulah Wyse, found beaten in her home Feb. 29, regained consciousness yesterday and has been removed from the intensive care ward of Methodist hospital in Memphis.

Chief of Police Arthur O. Bruce, said he had been informed by the woman's doctor that police can question her in about a week. He said police hope that Mrs. Wyse can identify her attacker.

Suspects have been questioned and released. A woman was taken to highway patrol headquarters in Poplar Bluff yesterday for a lie detector test, which she passed. A man, who was to have been tested, was ill and will be given it later Bruce said.

Mrs. Wyse was beaten with a hammer in her bedroom by an unidentified assailant moments after she arrived home with her six-year-old daughter.

The daughter described the attacker as a light-skinned Negro male, about five feet nine inches, with long hair.

Fire Sirens To Warn Of Storms

Glenn Greene, director of Scott County civil defense and circulation manager of the Daily Standard, told members of the Lions club at its meeting Wednesday that tornadoes are the main concern of civil defense in the Sikeston area.

Greene, who was appointed director by the county court, explained that the main problem is alerting people of a disaster in the middle of the night.

"Statistics show most tornadoes occur between 1 a.m. and 7 a.m. while most people are sleeping," he said.

The only answer he said, was for the fire department to sound the sirens on their five cars at full blast to awaken people.

"Believe me, if that car comes down your street, you'll hear it," he said.

He explained that civil defense is government at all levels performing emergency functions. He said the duty of the director is to help coordinate the offices of the county into a single unit.

"The co-ordinators in the six-county Bootheel area are securing a hot line in Malden connected to the weather bureau in St. Louis," Greene said.

Nixon To Outline Plan For
School Busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today President Nixon will go on radio and television at 10 o'clock Eastern Standard Time tonight to outline his recommendations on the school busing issue.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon will speak for about 10 minutes to outline recommendations which will be contained in a formal message to be sent to the Congress Friday.

The White House said earlier Nixon would not go on public television or make any speech on his recommendations. Ziegler said the President changed his mind after finalizing details of his recommendation at Camp David, Md.

Ziegler said results of Tuesday's Florida primary election in which voters overwhelmingly endorsed a constitutional amendment against busing and in which antibusing candidate George Wallace won the Democratic preferential voting had nothing to do with the President's decision to make a television speech on busing.

Nixon went to his Camp David retreat Tuesday night to work on details of the legislative package which he will propose to Congress Friday and a general statement on his position on busing. He conferred there with top level domestic advisers.

Ziegler said Nixon would return to the White House this afternoon to put finishing touches on his speech and to broadcast from the White House.

Nixcn has said on several occasions that he is opposed in principle to the use of massive busing for the sake of achieving racial balance in public schools. He said, however, that orders of the courts must be carried out.

Ziegler said Nixon was using an address to the nation "to put into perspective the complexities of a problem that the President feels is a major problem."

Ziegler added the formal message which goes to Congress Friday will be much more detailed than those in his address tonight. There have been reports the President will not seek a constitutional amendment on the busing question but will take instead a legislative approach.

Ziegler, in response to questions, said the President already had "a measure of the problem and considered it a major problem" before the Florida primary and was not influenced by the voting.

Meanwhile civil rights leader Roy Wilkins told a House subcommittee he understands Nixon has decided not to back a proposed antibusing Constitutional amendment.

"But in our estimation he will go for something just as bad," said Wilkins, without being specific.

"Our President has made his choice," Wilkins said. "He is leading the mob which is tearing at the concept of equal protection of the law."

Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP and chairman of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, told a House Judiciary subcommittee that Nixon's stand is embittering blacks but will strengthen rather than weaken their resolve to get the best education for their children.

Nursing Board

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Board of Nursing has received national approval under the federal Nurse Training Act.

"Now that the national approval has been granted," Vivian D. Meinecke, executive secretary of the board said, "any nursing school in Missouri accredited by the board is eligible for federal funds."

Missouri has 35 professional nursing programs and 26 licensed practical nursing programs operating now.

Prior to the new four-year federal authority from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, schools had to go through the National League of Nursing for approval before receiving federal aid.

Missing Woman

WITTENBERG, Mo. (AP) — A search continued today for a young woman whose abandoned car was discovered Tuesday on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi River near here.

Sheriff Marvin Lukefahr of Perry County identified the missing woman as Betty Mueller, 22, of Cape Girardeau. He said Miss Mueller's car was driven onto the bluff and stopped when it ran into a ditch.

The Coast Guard conducted dragging operations in the river south of Wittenberg Wednesday, and authorities were continuing their search of the shoreline today.

Euer Unveils Magic Carpet
Students Find Adventure In East Prairie Classes

By SHIRLEY PRITCHETT

EAST PRAIRIE –Tucked away in childhood memories are remembrances of a favorite teacher, the one who made learning enjoyable, a challenge, and perhaps instilled the desire to pursue knowledge furthur than the required assignments.

Fourth grade students of the A.J. Martin School will remember Michael Euer as an unusual teacher.

Stepping into his classroom is a trip to adventure land. Depending on the subject, the student may find yourself in Alaska, Japan, Egypt, or the Amazon. His appraoch to teaching is fun, yet serious, and with the use of gimmicks, as he calls them, students are made aware of more than the fundamentals of learning.

His homeroom is divided into teams, each having elected officers which change every two weeks, giving each student the opportunity to serve in an elected position.

"Seeing a slow student being coached by a more advanced student in order to advance their team is very rewarding," Euer said. "Limited competition with a purpose in a classroom is good but too much competetion is very bad, so by using the team approach I feel we accomplish more," he said. "Seeing a child succeed is perhaps the greatest thrill one can experience," he added.

Stock market math is one of the many gimmicks Euer has been using with success. A classroom newspaper with a financial section is printed and from there the New York Stock Exchange, East Prairie branch, goes into operation. students add, divide, multiply and subtract their stock prices and record them on graphs.

"We operate on the English language," Euer explained. Students wear surgical masks and the tests are the patients. Each child is dubbed an intern at the first of the year and a chart is posted, showing test results. If a test is failed, the patient dies.

Social Studies classes find the students visiting different countries. At the conclusion of the studies of Japan, a Japanese dinner is served, complete with chopsticks, and a menu of bird's nest soup, chow mein, fried rice, green tea and fortune cookies.

"We don't have parties, we call them happenings," he said. At Christmas the birth of Christ is reinacted. Valentine's Day becomes a royal coronation, with a king and queen, knights and ladies. Each child in the class is included in a special way and parents are invited.

King Tut's Tomb is a favorite of the students. Each becomes an archaeologist and enters the tomb to dig for answers on math tests.

Another favorite gimmick is called war. Again the team effort is employed and each has it's official uniforms, t-shirts stenciled with their selected coat of arms. Each group has a flag which is raised only if its team has accumulated the highest number of points in a given time and the winners are treated to a big sundae.

"Teaching gives me the greatest enjoyment but the scouting program ranks a close second," Euer said.

Activily involved in the Scout program, he first served as cubmaster, then Webelos leader and is now ScoutMaster of troop 37. Under his leadership the East Prairie scouting program has been credited by Okeechobee leaders with being the most active in the district. Camping trips, cave explorations and hikes are almost monthly happenings and plans are being formulated for a trip to Washington D.C.

During the 24 years which Euer has been involved in scouting, from Cub Scouts to scoutings highest rank of Eagle, awards and honors have been given to him. One award of which he is especially proud is the wood badge, the highest training award earned by volunteer scouters. This was presented in a ceremony in Germany by Lady Baden Powell, wife of the founder of the Boy Scouts program.

He has taught in Scout camps over the United States, directed a French-American Scout camp in France and in 1962 accompanied a group to the World Jamboree in Athens, Greece.

Family togetherness is important to him. He and his wife, the former Miss Georgia Churchwell, who teaches corrective reading in the Martin school, have two children, David, two, and Elizabeth, two months.

Five years ago he came to East Prairie to teach a Red

COULD IT BE WOMAN'S LIP?

Sometimes we wonder whether it could be Woman's Lip that is throwing so much weight. For example, one prominent Woman's Liberationist recently said, before the National Press Club in Boston:

"The marriage contract is unconstitutional.

"Richard Nixon is the most sexually insecure chief of state since Napoleon.

"This (woman's liberation) is a sexual revolution, not a reform.

"The law-abiding side of women's liberation is over because they have discovered that law and justice are not always related.

"In regard to divorce, we should do away with alimony, and instead those who choose to be housewives should receive legally determined portions of their husbands' salaries for which they do not have to account."

The "woman's liberation" movement is not a revolution but just one more act in the mental warfare that now seeks to engage the nation.

Women who decide to take the law into their own hands will discover that they are holding a burning issue. Others have tried it to their dismay.

POISON PREVENTION
WEEK

Because young kids will eat almost anything, accidental poisonings remain the most common medical emergency facing young children. Some 70,000 cases of accidental poisonings among children under five years of age were reported to the federal government's Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers in 1970. At least 200 children under five died each year as a result of ingestion of poisonous substances.

To call attention to the problem, the U. S. Public Health Service has set aside the week beginning Sunday, March 19, as National Poison Prevention Week. A spokesman for the Council on Family Health, a nonprofit organization sponsored by medicine manufacturers, points out that poisonings are not dramatic events and are not often reported by the press. This explains in part why people are not sufficiently concerned with the problem.

Congress in 1970 passed the Poison Prevention Packaging Act. It made mandatory special child-resistant packaging on certain products commonly involved in poisonings. And the availability of a network of 550 poison control centers to give quick guidance to frantic parents also has saved many lives. But the key to preventing this type of tragedy lies in the awareness of parents that hazardous substances must be kept out of the reach of children in the home.

WINTER'S SURRENDER

March is an unpredictable prankster. It cannot seem to make up its mind. It may come in like a lion or it may be amiable with warm breezes and blue skies. But a philosophical countryman refuses to be perturbed; he knows that the vernal change is at hand.

It isn't logical to expect a winter to surrender suddenly. A suitable introduction to spring requires just so much time. Snows must melt; a flow of maple sap needs crisp, star-lit nights and melting days. It takes a little time for the red hue to deepen in the twigs of swamp maples.

There are days of gusty winds that sway elms in the meadows and lift funnels of grass and dust which whirl like miniature tornadoes across bare fields. Winter's chains are not loosened yet, but each day the time is nearer when they will snap.

The land awakens slowly. The bare strip widens on the south side of the woodlot; pussy willows poke out furred noses; buds are swelling on the lilac by the kitchen door. Winter's grip is not broken but we know it is ending.

Hours of daylight lengthen and the miracle is nearing. The introduction comes unevenly, but each day makes it more certain. March is a prankster but it always tells the truth.

THAT BIG
TAX CUT

While some members of Congress and the Nixon Administration have misled us to believe we're getting a big tax cut, before the average American gets too excited about a federal tax reduction to be expected this year and next, he had better calm down. The much-touted multi-billion-dollar tax reduction that is supposed to be on the way isn't.

Let's look at the family of four with an income of $10,000 last year. Last year taxes withheld from the breadwinner's pay averaged $19.90 a week for this family. This year with the "big" tax reduction the withholding will be $19.70 a week. The family gets 20 cents a week. or $10.40 for the year, more spendable income as far as the income tax is concerned. At the same time the breadwinner's Social Security tax is increased this year by $52.00. That means the family comes out with $41.60 more out of its income than last year.

The single man is even worse off, if his income is $10,000. Last year his withholding for federal income tax was $31 a week. This year his Social Security tax also will rise $52, making a total increase of taxes taken from his pay of about $150 for the year.

All this is supposed to "spur the economy" by increased consumer spending. How can the consumer spend more when he takes in less? Only a federal tax "expert" can explain that.

MARCH METAMORPHOSIS

March. The very sound of the word rings with exuberance. Up and at 'em. Forward and onward. Movement. The exuberance of release from winter's grip, swathed in heavy coats, deep in boots, muffled in scarves, encased in glove and mitten. Knuckling under to the discipline of scraping ice and shoveling snow. Perhaps for moments still forced to endure more of the same, but easier by far to take in March because all signs tell that soon these trials will disappear in spring's welcome return.

Nature already raises its signal flags of victory in its struggle for survival in the face of killing cold. A storm or two may yet bend the bough before rain and sun nourish and coax. But between winter's closing thrusts winds dally with kites instead of snowsheets, tossing excited cries of stringholders across the meadow. Joyous shouts mingle with a song sparrow's tune punctuated by the jay's rasping call.

Over the hill the pond ice exchanges its brittle sheen for a melting softness where paw prints pack a meandering trail near the bank. Now the pool's source no longer is secret, a spring welling up to spread its wet circle, a moving black eddy dissolving the frozen lid. Cracks and fissures steak across, veins of age patterning the surface, writing the message of numbered days until skates are stored again down cellar and boys check poles for fishing lines.

March. Straighten up and look about. Shake off the gray of sky and don the blue of springtime days where bright white clouds sail above and lakes grow azure midst a land growing green.

A POINT FOR THE BEARDS

The wonder is not that so many men are sporting beards these days but that men have ever taken the trouble of shaving, especially back in the dark ages before stainless steel blades or electric razors or scented, medicated shaving creams.

"The man who grows a beard because he considers shaving a waste of time has a valid point," says Dr. Herbert Mescon, professor and chairman of the Department of Dermatology at Boston University School of Medicine.

In his 55 or so years of shaving, the average man will spend roughly 3,350 hours, or 139 days, looking at his puss in the mirror while hewing his daily growth of about 0.17 of an inch of hair (roughly ½ inch a month).

But be thankful you don't live in Polynesia, says Mescon. Men there still remove their whiskers with pieces of seashells or sharks' teeth that have been ground to a fine edge.

Of course, maybe they don't have much else to do in Polynesia.

WHERE BUSINESS AND PLEASURE
MEET

An interesting commentary on multiple use versus single use of the nation's forest lands has come from a spokesman for one of the timber companies. He notes that a large acreage of the company's lands in Minnesota has been included in a proposal for a new national park. This, in itself, is not unusual. But, the fact that the area proposed for inclusion in the park has been logged for 27 years, yet is still considered of park caliber, is indeed unusual. As the timberman points out, this would seem to prove"... that timber production and recreation can live together."

The fallacy still persists that there is no alternative to locking up more and more of our commercial forest lands solely for recreational use. The timber official, in referring to the hundreds of recreation proposals made in recent years, declares: "In many instances these proposals would impair the orderly flow of forest products so desperately needed to meet the housing demands of the nation. As a forester, I am equally concerned with the harm such withdrawals are doing to forest management plans aimed at providing a realistic and careful balance between the many uses which a forest can and should provide."

This offical's company strongly favors recreational use of lumber-producing forest lands and has demonstrated its belief in multiple use by opening its forests to the public for recreation purposes at no charge. In Minnesota, where the national park proposal would take over thousands of acres of the company's lands, the public already has free use of 325,000 acres of its land on which there are no restrictions against hunting, trapping, camping or any other legitimate recreational pursuit.

Mixing business and pleasure is usually an unwise procedure; but, when it comes to utilization of the nation's land and forest resources, there is no other course. Recreationists can enjoy them even as farmers and timbermen use them to produce the food, fiber and wood products that are the basis of our existence.

AN EFFECTIVE FORCE
FOR SAFETY

A number of federal regulations have been imposed which are directed toward making the automobile a safer mode of conveyance. But, according to press reports, another form of persuasion on auto manufacturers to build safer cars may make itself felt far more effectively than government regulation. Insurance companies are making safer cars an economic issue.

An insurance company spokesman representing 514 insurance companies points out, for purposes of illustration, that the auto industry, by equipping cars with functional bumpers rather than ornamental pieces of tin, could save its customers $1 billion a year in insurance premiums. Currently, most bumpers "appear to be designed to inflict damage" rather than protect the vehicle. Insurance companies have also found that super=power cars with big engines, air scoops, fat racing tires and manual transmissions account for 56 per cent more accident losses than do conventional models. One major company has announced that it will charge 50 per cent more for insurance coverage on cars of this type.

If car buyers show a preference for economy and safety instead of 400-horsepower Xmas trees, they will most assuredly get them. And, it seems the insurance companies may encourage such a trend.

THE EYES HAVE IT!

Did you hear about the hobo who knocking on the door of a farmhouse, asking for something to eat?

"First, let me show you something," said the farmer's wife, leading him to the woodshed behind which was a pile of uncut wood.

"Do you see this wood?" she said.

"Yeah, I seen it."

"You should say, 'I saw it,' " the farmer's wife corrected.

The bum looked at her and said, "Lady, you saw me see it, but you ain't going to see me saw it!"

INS AND OUTS
OF NEW CARS

Three men at the office were discussing what most people wanted to get out of a new car.

"Dependability," said one. "Styling," demanded another while the third pointed to "Economy."

Just then, a fourth man who recently had bought a new car entered the room. They decided to pose the question to him. "What is the thing you'd like most to get out of your new car?"

"My teenage son!" was the quick reply.

SOVIET WEAPONS
IN SPACE

The soviets are making rapid military advances in space, accordint to a report recently released by the Senate Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee. "Soviet Space Programs, 1966-70," prepared by the scientific experts of the Library of Congress, details Soviet advances in satellite weaponry.

In 1970, for example, the remains of the Soviet Cosmos 316 satellite fell to earth in the United States. The metal pieces were thicker and heavier than that usually used for satellites. Our scientists and technicians concluded that the wreckage closely resembled that of a bomb.

The report also points out that the Soviets are almost certainly continuing to develop two kinds of space weapons. One is the fractional orbital bombardment system (FOBS), which could launch warheads at the U.S. The other is the "inspector/destructor" satellite, which can intercept and destroy other satellites in orbit.

Dr. Charles Sheldon, chief ot the Library of Congress' Science Policy Research Division, stated in the report: "The Soviet Union has worked at the game of making the United States look as bad as possible in doing what is necessary in space defense, while keeping its own freedom of action in this regard as complete as possible."

The U. S., on the other hand, has abondoned its "Saint" program for satellite inspection of other satellites, thus making it impossible for us to know for sure how many weapons the Soviets are orbiting.

Dr. Sheldon, on the basis of the available evidence, concludes that Soviet space experiments are "leading toward stationing of /a/ nuclear deterrent force in orbit for a sustained period."

Godfather's Blood: organized racketeers more powerful than ever despite efforts to make Mafia gentle myth

New York:-- So the "Godfather" came to town and everybody acted like it was a Saturday night wedding in old Palermo. And what could be more natural? This town is the Mafia's capital and, gory be, has been since the Grandfather Meyer Lansky was arrested twice on narcotics charges 40 years ago.

So it's all slipping into the mythology of American mores -- and the public prints and book writers are saying there is no Mafia, It's gone.

Sure it's gone -- like Mao Tse-tung is going to leave mainland China to Chinag Kai-shek in his will and thoughts.

The Mafia families are more powerful than ever. There are killers, enforcers, official corrupter lawyers, accountants, kangaroo courts, political fronts, even a few friendly members of Congress and the old Dons are still with us -- mostly in this big town. But the mob, the combine, The Organization, play the name game if you will, is around all the way from here to Texas where the operations, straight down to Galveston, still are in the hands of the combine of the late Joe Civello.

The old Dons such as Michele Miranda and Carlo Gambino are still with us. And there still is liaison with the Lansky-Switzerland operation. But there is a new breed. Younger, better educated, and most important -- not yet around long enough to have gained their kind of fame in the prints and tubes.

The Justice Dept. has hundreds of names of the younger men taking over from their actual fathers or godfathers. Furthermore, new cultural and ethnic groups are moving in for use as troops just as the old Mafia moved in on Murder, Inc., after apprenticing as troops.

So it's all a play on words. Call it what you will, the Combine --organized crime and racketeering -is more powerful than ever because its men are newer and inlegitimate business and always looking for "new stuff."

There is for example, an anti-racketeering strike force which has hard evidence that one organized crime "family" is casing New York state watching the Legislature for passage of an official gambling act a la Las Vegas or an amendment to the constitution in Nevada's image -- casinos and all. And the authorities know that this Mafia combine is looking at islands off Manhattan, or at hotels, or hotel sites all the way from Sheepshead Bay to Niagara Falls in an attempt to anticipate where the gambling casinos will be located--if approved.

This is no movie script. One of the most dedicated racket "busters" is watching closely.

From coast to coast there is such solid evidence that the crime "Organization" is functioning -- and that it is and has been a systematic, supernumerary "second," albeit underground, government.

There is no doubt --though the Mafia stopped "making" official members about the end of the '50.

The record is right out of their own mouths. There are at least 200,000 pages of transcript of FBI-bugged conversations to prove there is and always has been a Mafia infrastructure The Organization has been under electronic surveillance for over a decade.

Just look at a few words from the electronically overhead conversation of Angelo (Ray) DeCarlo, a capo in the family of the late boss of bosses Vito Genovese. De DeCarlo is up for 12 years, sent there for extortion because of the effective crusading of New Jersey's U.S. Attorney Herbert Stern. Here's the conversation as bugged by the FBI:

"Barney: 'Ray (DeCarlo), things they (the authorities--VR) speak about today. Somebody must be talking because they could never know these things. They know who's boss, underboss, the Commission, the Caporegima. They talk like that--amico nos.'

"Ray (DeCarlo alias Gyp): 'And, oh, the other guy in New York, what's his name? That was in the can with Vito (Genovese)?'

"Barney: 'Joe Cago (Valachi).'

"Ray: 'I hear he's talking like a bastard. Wasn't he amico nos?.... It is a good thing here that we got no books or anything. If we had books we'd be buried --all of us--- If they'd ever had one book you know what they'd do to us all? Just one charge they could get all of us. Secret organization. Bing. Everyone of us. Oh, if they ever had a book. They could do it, but without a book they can't prove nothin'. They got to get evidence. How's things with the Gallo brothers?...

These tapes were released January 1970. And there are tapes of such men, believed to be powerful bosses, as Ray Patriarca (New England), boss Sam DeCavalcante, of all Jersey; and Stefano Magaddino and others known mostly in the trade.

The polished new breed is heading for legitimate business-- all the way from auto agencies to banks, from beer to zinc, from crap tables to college sports.

So welcome Marlon Brando. Now go home. Enough play-acting.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Ambassador Arthur K. Watson, who has just been given the delicate assignment of establishing diplomatic contacts with the Chinese in Paris, got gloriously drunk on the flight to Washington for his conferences with President Nixon.

A number of witnesses have told us the slim, gray-haired ambassador normally the picture of dignity, kept shouting for more Scotch, grabbing the stewardesses and trying to stuff money down the fronts of their blouses.

He finally passed out, his arms and legs sprawled across the first class lounge, recall the witnesses. They say he appeared to be foamin at the mouth from white tablets he had been chewing.

Apparently, this wasn't his first drunken spree in the skies over the Atlantic. Stewardesses recall that, on an earlier flight, Watson downed nearly two pints of Scotch and two miniature bottles of champagne. He allegedly tried to recruit one stewardess as a mistress for his teen-age son and peevishly threw grapes at her after she turned down the proposition.

In Chinese eyes, drunken behavior is considered disgraceful. The Chinese love good liquor and even play drinking games. But the man who gets drunk loses the game and brings shame upon himself.

This raises the possibility that Ambassador Watson, in a bibulous state, could jeopardize the Chinese-American detente and undo the good President Nixon accomplished in Peking.

MERRY MILLIONAIRE

We have discussed Watson's liquor problem with a variety of sources. Insiders say this figures in his departure from International Business Machines (IBM), the corporate giant his late father built.

Arthur Watson's playboy ways didn't mix with Big Business, and he lost the runoff for IBM's presidency. As a consolation prize, Nixon appointed him Ambassador to France.

His only apparent qualification for the job was his enormous wealth and his willingness to share it with the Republicans. We have traced $44,000 that he contributed to the Nixon-Agnew campaign in 1968, plus another $5,000 to the general Republican cause. Again in 1970, we have found record to $21,000 that he dropped in the GOP hat.

Presumably, his pocketbook will be wide open again this year to help finance Nixon's reelection campaign.

As his reward, Watson will handle the crucial negotiations to increase trade, travel and cultural exhanges with Communist China. He will deal with China's veteran diplomat, Huang Chen, who has handled number of sensitive missions for Premier Chou En-lai. Huang is the only Chinese ambassador who belongs to the powerful central committee of the Chinese Communist Party.

We have taken testimony from several witnesses who flew with Watson aboard Pan American Airways flight 107 from London to Washington on March 9. The chief stewardess filed a complaint with Pan Am about Watson's conduct.

FLIGHT CREW MUZZLED

Pan Am, however, hushed up the report and ordered the fight crew not to discuss the incident. A company spokesman refused all comment for the protection of the witnesses, therefore, we have agreed to with hold their identities.

They all agree that Watson was drunk when he boarded the plane at 10:45 am., London time. Before the airliner left the runway, he ignored the "No Smoking" sign, propped his feet up on a lounge chair and yelled at a stewardess: "Hey you! I want a Bloddy Mary!"

When she politely declined until the plane was aloft, he shouted at her: "Who do you think you are?" Thereafter, he called her a "bitch and "stupid" and threatened to get her fired.

He kept up a holler for Scotch and grabbed at passing stewardesses . Then he tried to stuff $40 down the fronts of their blouses. Finally he passed out and slept for about three hours. He got off the plane unassisted and was met at Dulles airport by two State Department aide Robert Aylmer and Frank Dempsey.

We spoke to the American Embassy in Paris three times, but Watson was unavailable for questioning. Through an aide, he gave us a one-sentence statement that there was "no basis in fact" to the accounts of his misconduct. A State Department spokesman also said no complaints had been made.

Footnote: From other witnesses, we learned of a similiar, earlier incident aboard Pan American's flight 52 from Washington to Paris. It was on this occasion that he told a stewardess that he wanted his teen age son to develop sexually and asked her to be his mistress. Afterward, he tossed grapes at her for refusing. He was abusive and foulmouthed, the witnesses said.

Agnew Defends Wallace Against Unfair Innuendo

By JERRY BROWN
Associated Press Writer

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says Alabama Gov. George Wallace has been the subject of a lot of unfair political innuendo even though there was nothing radical about his campaigning for this week's Florida primary.

"I haven't heard him say anything that I would consider radical during that campaign," Agnew said Wednesday during a speech at Drake University in Des Moines.

But, Agnew added, "it seems to be the general impression — and this is again characteristic of the political innuendo that streaks back and forth across the nation ... that he is somewhat of a reactionary person who is trying to deprive the minority groups of their freedom and bring out the worst of their emotions, causing us to divide as a people."

Agnew said that "something Gov. Wallace was saying must have struck a responsive chord in more than just the people of one section of Florida."

Wallace received 42 per cent of the vote in Tuesday's Democratic primary in Florida. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota placed second with 18 per cent, followed by Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington at 13 per cent and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine at 9 per cent.

Agnew was critical of a statement by Muskie denouncing Wallace's victory.

"When a man wins an election he shouldn't be referred to as a demagogue," Agnew said.

Wallace will compete next in the April 4 Wisconsin primary, where he got 24 per cent of the vote in 1964. He declined to predict how well he will do this year, but said "we know that the average citizen in Wisconsin, and other states, in my judgment, feels just like they do in Florida."

However, Humphrey said he considers the issues in Wisconsin far different from those in Florida.

"I don't consider the Wisconsin electorate the same as the Florida electorate," Humphrey said at a news conferences in Milwaukee.

Wisconsin's primary includes all 11 Democrats who were on the Florida ballot plus Rep. Patsy Mink of Hawaii.

Muskie, viewed by many as the Democratic front-runner before Florida, enters Wisconsin as an underdog, according to his state campaign manager.

Muskie also is competing in next Tuesday's Illinois primary, where he is challenged on separate fronts by Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

Muskie and McGovern are competing for a share of the 160 national convention delegates who will be elected Tuesday.

Mutscher, Two Aides Sentenced

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Court Judge J. Neil Daniel sentenced House Speaker Gus Mutscher and his two aides to five years probated sentences in the state penitentiary today.

The defense had asked that the jury be dismissed and that the judge assess punishment for Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and Mutscher administrative aide Rush McGinty.

Chief Prosecutor Bob Smith said he would have no objection in view of the fact that a "coconspirator" in the case, Houston promoter Frank Sharp, had been given a probated sentence in Houston on two minor banking violation changes.

The three were convicted Wednesday of agreeing among themselves to accept unsecured loans from Sharp's bank in exchange for their help in 1969 in passing two banking bills.

The state alleged they used the loans to purchase stock in a Sharp-controlled insurance company and then, after the banking bills passed, sold the stock for large profits.

Mutscher was asked if he would resign his office as speaker.

"I have a high regard for the office. I'll have an announcement to make in the next few days," Mutscher said.

Approximately 50 character witnesses for the defense were in the courtroom, including about 30 state legislators.

Their testimony was not required in view of the state's failure to object to the defense request for probation.

Lawyers for all three defendants said they will still appeal the verdict.

Bicentennial Planning Stamped 'Top Secret'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A disbelieving congressional prober wants to know why the commission planning America's 200th birthday party has been granted power to stamp its documents "top secret."

Chairman William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., of the House government information subcommittee, asked Jack LeVant, executive director of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission:

"Did the military-industrial complex in charge of the American Revolution incur huge cost-overruns as they have in all succeeding wars including the current 'cold war'?

"Did your historians uncover embarrassing errors during the American Revolution which you want to hide behind a secrecy stamp while we are commemorating the 200th anniversary?

"What other reason can there be for the...commission having authority to stamp 'top secret,' 'secret,' and 'confidential' on its documents?"

Moorhead said his subcommittee asked all government agencies to identify those empowered to use stamps to protect national-defense information. Hugh A. Hall, acting executive director of the commission, said LeVant has the authority.

But a commission spokesman, Dan Buser, said: "It has never been and is not the intention of this commission to make anything secret."

Buser said that at no time had the commission requested the need for a secret stamp.

"I've never seen a 'top secret' stamp in our organization since I've been here. I don't recall anyone doing anything secret in the Bicentennial Commission."

Moorhead said in a letter to he commission: "The attitude of the secrecy-minded bureaucrats who think that the American people do not have a right to know the facts of government is implicit in the contention that your agency can wield the secrecy stamps classifying government information.

"The attitude is absurd, but the attitude also is dangerous."

LeVant was out of the country and not available for comment.

Nixon Refuses To Release Aid Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has refused to release documents on U.S. aid and information programs in Cambodia on grounds they are "internal documents" that do not represent official administration policy.

The President's decision was delivered to Chairman William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., of the House Government Information subcommittee just before midnight Wednesday at his Georgetown home.

Moorhead has invoked a 1961 law cutting off U.S. foreign aid at midnight unless the documents he had requested were delivered or the President had sent a certified message on the reasons he was refusing to deliver them.

Moorhead's staff said all U.S. aid around the world would have halted at midnight without the letter; the administration said only aid to Cambodia was involved.

The nature of the requested documents has not been disclosed but a memorandum prepared by Moorhead's subcommittee staff indicated the aid documents dealt with decisions on the type of American aid being furnished to Cambodia.

Moorhead's subcommittee deals with foreign operations and government information.

Golda Meir Brushes Off Hussein Proposal

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Golda Meir today brushed off King Hussein's Palestinian proposal as a gimmick and said he would get the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River only by negotiating a peace treaty with Israel.

Mrs. Meir told Israel's parliament that her government will remain the sole ruler of the territory seized from Jordan in the 1967 war until peace is achieved "through serious negotiation."

Hussein proposed Wednesday to establish a semiautonomous state of Palestine on the West Bank and join it with the rest of Jordan under his reign once Israel gave it up.

Debt Ceiling Hike Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has signed a bill permitting a $20-billion increase in the national debt ceiling, bringing it to $450 billion.

The White House said today the President signed the measure Wednesday night, a few hours after it passed Congress.

Ann Landers

Swinger Got Caught

Dear Ann Landers: I was fascinated by the letter from "Swinger's Wife," because I saw myself between the lines. My swinger was 73 years old. For the last six years of his life he spent every weekend with his girl friend. They took plane trips everywhere -- attended boxing matches, football games, went hunting, trout fishing, swimming, golfing, to the sea shore and the mountains. Just name it and they went.

Several months ago he had a heart attack at a bingo game in another city. His picture was in the paper --being carried out on a stretcher. Some idiot newspaper reporter made a very funny story out of it. It was picked up by our local press. Well, it wasn't so funny when that picture appeared in the paper with his girlfriend draper over him. His children didn't laugh very much and neither did I. The heart attack wasn't serious but he couldn't hold his head up after that. He died a year later and I think that's what killed him.

I hope every swinger realizes what a risk he is taking when he fools around. ---Swinger's Widow.

Dear Friend-- Thanks for writing. And now a word to you swingers: But for the grace of God it could have been you. Scary, isn't it?

Dear Ann Landers: I am so mad I could spit nails. Store hours are printed in great big block letters on the front door: OPEN FROM 9:30 A.M. UNTIL 5:30 P.M. Yet almost every evening someone meanders in at 5:25 and keeps me there until 5:40 or later. I don't get paid extra for overtime work, but I have to do it anyway. Is this fair?

After putting in a full day with the loony public I'm plenty glad to see the doors close. Yet I haven't been out of this place at 5:30 in three months. I would appreciate it if you'd print my letter and clobber the slobs. ---Utica Gripe.

Dear U. Gripe: It's obvious that you aren't the boss, and with your attitude you'll NEVER be one. The purpose of retail establishments is to accommodate customers. Without customers a store can't stay in business.

A competent employee is interested in moving merchandise. He doesn't resent staying with a customer who is buying, or even looking. He should be willing to give courteous and helpful service even if it's inconvenient for him. I don't know how old you are or how long you've been a sales clerk but I suggest you look for another job. Clock-watchers don't enjoy their work and they shouldn't be serving the public.

Dear Ann Landers: As a stepmother who is about to celebrate her third wedding anniversary, I'd like to pass on the benefit of my experience. It was a second marriage for both Rod and me. We each had a son. Here are some simple rules, which, if followed, will reap rich rewards:

(1) Refuse to argue with or defend yourself against the ex-wife or her relatives. You can't win and there's no chance that you'll come out looking good. Refer all questions, complaints and requests to your spouse.

(2) Never compromise or give in to a stepchild because you think it will curry favor. He'll respect and love you more if you are firm but fair.

(3) When a child awakens during the night, let the step-parent comfort him. It will create afeeling of confidence and trust.

My husband's mother said to me recently, "You're lucky your son Billy and Rod's son Johnny like each other." I told her, "It wasn't luck. They had no choice. We are a family. All members of our family must work together and play together." Spread this gospel, will you, Ann? --Success In Schenectady

Dear Friend: Nothing succeeds like success. Consider it spread.

St. Patrick's Day on March 17 is believed to be the date of his death in A.D. 461, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Trend Toward Romantic Decorating Predicted

If you want to know how a trend in decorating begins, just ask Ellen Lehman McCluskey, one of the world's most versatile interior designers. She predicts we are heading toward a romantic age in decorating. And she is helping it evolve.

"It is happening because the world needs coziness. People are ready for it because we all want to shut out unpleasantries and envelop ourselves in cocoons," says the blonde dynamo who began the tented look in furnishings.

Restaurants, clubs, yachts, health spas and homes are being swaddled in tents, upholstered walls and nostalgic accessories. Mrs. McCluskey also sees a revival of lace curtains and peach bedrooms, all part of a romantic scene. And in the dining room the use of multi-tables will provide intimacy and coziness for home dinner parties.

Whether it is a pied-a-terre in New York City or a 54-room Tudor mansion in Greenwich, Conn., or hotels in Hamburg, London, Nassau and Caracas, each place Mrs. McCluskey has decorated with that romantic look will have its stamp of individuality.

It may take a cultural twist as it did in the lobby of the Oaks Hotel in Houston, Tex., where the walls are decorated in 18th century art bought at local art galleries. It might be an old German look for a hotel in Hamburg, or a hunting lodge look for a hotel-motel in Toronto.

Men like her decoration because it isn't frilly. Women like it because the backgrounds flatter their fashion and makeup. She uses red, a flattering color for women, in many man-frequented public places.

Mrs. McCluskey's biggest office job to date — 20 executive offices and 20 dining rooms for McGraw-Hill — will stress the eclectic look because all the men except two chose traditional furnishings. Each office will be different, but each one will be as warmly decorated as possible.

Brownies Receive Awards During Girl Scout Week

Brownie Troop 132 of Southeast Elementary school Tuesday received individual American flags as awards for studying the history of the flag.

They also learned the meaning of the pledge of allegiance, flag etiquette, what the flag colors mean and what the 13 stripes represent. They learned the Star Spangled Banner and who wrote it.

The flags were presented by Pat Lea, and Lee Shell.

Their leaders are Glenda Bridges and Millie Nanney.

Blind Woman Weaves

KITCHENER, Canada (AP) — Christine Breadner has woven and knitted hundreds of things, but she has never seen one of them with her eyes — only with her sensitive fingers.

Miss Breadner is blind and almost totally deaf as the result of a progressive disease she contracted as a child. She lives at Huronia Hall, a residence for the sightless.

She learned to knit and weave 15 years ago, beginning with plain mats and handbags made on a hand loom.

About 10 years ago she bought her own complex foot loom from money she had earned selling her handicrafts. Until then she had used a loom leased by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

She threads the hettles at the front of the loom and passes the 224 threads through to the back of the loom for an assistant to thread the beater. Once the loom is threaded, she cranks it up herself to get the correct tension.

Some of her more complicated patterns involve using four or five colors, but once the pattern is started by sighted persons, she can complete it. She "sees" the pattern with her fingers.

"I prefer weaving to knitting because in weaving you can 'see' the mistakes with your fingers and can correct them."

Miss Breadner works four or five hours a day at her loom and then often works in the residence workshop, assembling candy dividers, reading in braille or typing letters.

Her weaving is sold at the residence craft shop and at their annual bazaar.

A LOW INCOME housing development on North Lincoln Avenue in East Prairie will be open to the public Sunday.

Open House Sunday At East Prairie

EAST PRAIRIE — An open house will be held Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the new low-income housing development on North Lincoln Avenue.

The site contains 48 housing units for the elderly. These units are contained in 17 one-story buildings and vary from efficiency apartments in quadruplex buildings to two bedroom apartments in duplex buildings.

Some units will be identified as display homes and will be furnished for the open house.

Flag raising ceremonies will open the activities at 2 p.m., at which Mrs. Willis Friend, the first tenant, will raise the American flag and a Missouri State flag in front of the community building. The flags have been presented to the housing authority by Congressman Bill Burlison and State Rep. Fred DeField. The American flag has flown over the United States capitol in Washington D.C. and the state flag has flown over the state capitol in Jefferson City.

Members of the Woman's Improvement club and the Business and Professional Women's club will serve as hostesses and guides in the display homes and serve refreshments throughout the afternoon in the community building.

According to Mrs. Dorothy Dismukes, executive director of the housing project, 500 to 600 are expected to visit the area.

Ark-Mo Avoids Gas Shortages

KENNETT — Arkansas - Missouri Power Company officials have ventured $4 million to insure that they, unlike other gas distributors in Missouri, will not have to stop connecting any new customers.

John H. "Jack" Germain, vice-president of the engineering and purchasing department of Ark-Mo at Blytheville, Ark., told members of the Kennett Lions Club Friday that is the cost of the liquefield natural gas facility being constructed in Blytheville.

Germain said there is now a supply of liquid gas in the storage tank and vaporizing equipment, used to change the liquid back into gas, is being tested.

"With any luck, we will be able to provide full service on any cold day in the remainder of this winter season," he said. He noted the facility should be in full operation by next winter.

He said the decision to construct the liquefied gas facility came about due to a study initiated in 1969. The study showed Ark-Mo could increase the cold day supply of gas despite the fact there could be no increase in gas supply for this area.

Germain said the company can take the gas in warm months, store it, and make it available to supplement the deficient pipeline supply on the coldest days each winter. This supplemental supply will enable the company to continue to add new residential and commercial customers for about five more years and possibly the company will then be able to negotiate an additional supply for the system.

"Despite all possible efforts," Germain said, "the plant was not in service in mid-January when the coldest weather moved in. Fortunately, it was not as cold as it occasionally gets in this area, but we were still faced with a problem that could have been most serious."

"We discontinued service to all interruptible customers and even curtailed firm industrial customers," he continued. "When this was obviously not enough, we appealed to all others to reduce thermostat settings five degrees. The response was tremendous and we estimated that our system demand was reduced about five million cubic feet. Thus we were able to get by — but let me assure you, that with each report of an approaching cold wave, we really got a chill — knowing that our pipeline supply is not adequate for the potential requirements."

"Frankly, we are quite proud of our program because we are head and shoulders ahead of any others around us," he said.

"We hope that you, our customers, understand that we are doing everything possible — and far more than most — to take care of our service obligations."

McGraw-Hill editor caught in kickback deal; Worked on the 'Hughes' and 'Red Fox' books; took ten per cent from a nazi horror victim.

WASHINGTON — The giant McGraw-Hill publishing empire, already stained by faked memoirs of Howard Hughes and a 102 -year- old Indian, has now been splashed with a new scandal.

Its highly-respected trade books editor -in- chief, who edited both the Hughes memoirs and the bestselling tale of Chief Red Fox, has been accused of taking what looks suspiciously like a $1,700 kickback.

The editor in question is Robert Stewart, the brainy, charming man brought in by McGraw-Hill to get its fiction and non-fiction books on the bestseller lists. In 1969, he was working on "The Book of Alfred Kantor," a powerful picture story of Nazi concentration camps.

Stewart had life or death control over whether Kantor's book would be published, when it would go to the printers and how much it would be promoted by McGraw-Hill. Publishing ethics demand an arms-length financial position by editors toward their writers.

Yet, Stewart took $1,275 from Kantor, the ex-camp inmate, and $425 from John Wykert, who helped sell the book and worked on the text with Kantor. We have a copy of Wykert's check to editor Stewart.

Whether the money was a kickback, a loan, a gift or an "editorial fee" -- it amounts to 10 per cent of the $17,-- advance -- is in dispute now within the huge McGraw-Hill corporate skyscraper in New York City.

Wykert has called variously a "kickback," a "gift" and an "editorial fee" in his talks with us. Kantor will only say it was "voluntary." McGraw-Hill president Harold McGraw, Jr., says he and Stewart regard it is a "loan." And we have another cancelled check dated 14 months after the money passed hands to show Stewart paid back to Wykert $420.

But in a conversation with us, McGraw nervously said Stewart's action was at best unwise. "I cannot condone the judgement" of Stewart, he asserted. "I am investigation."

McGraw met secretly with Wykert on Saturday and plans other meetings with Stewart and Kantor. Wykert, who first raised the question of unethical behavior, says he has no evidence that any money passed hands on the Hughes or Indian books.

"Look," he snorted. "Stewart's not going to do that to a Nabokov (a famous Novelist-Poet). He's only going to do it to a schmegeggi (simpleton) like me." Stewart would not return our calls to him.

Temptations Strong But Reagan Rules Out Acting

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says the ham in him thinks playing the screen role of Gen. Douglas MacArthur would be "a wonderful thing to do," but he has no plans to return to the movies.

"No. No acting for me," the 61-year-old Reagan said as he discussed the frustrations of office and his plans for the future in an interview Monday.

Had he ever thought about making "just one more" movie after leaving the governorship in late 1974?

"Oh, the thought has entered the mind and you think especially of some part that you think might tie in to what you are doing, but I know I can't do it. I don't want to do it," he said.

But Reagan, who made more than 50 films during his movietelevision career, said the ham in him made him wish he could have done the title role of "Patton," which won the Academy Award as the best picture of 1970.

Then he mused, "There is another one. When I think of the story that could be done on the same basis of MacArthur, coming to a close with that speech."

Reagan referred to the "old soldiers never die" address MacArthur made before Congress after being relieved by President Harry S. Truman as commander of U.S. forces in the Korean War.

"You can't have been an actor very long without saying that would be a wonderful thing to do," said Reagan, still darkhaired and handsome after five years as California's chief executive.

Reagan said he was "part of the whole planning of Patton" and "I would have done anything in the world" to have played the title role.

One day, he related, he told his friend, producer Frank McArthy, "Whoever plays this part but me, I will hate him for the rest of my life."

"And I wrote to Scott afterward and told him that I hate him now—for proving no one else but him should have done the part," Reagan said with a smile.

George C. Scott was voted an Academy Award as best actor of the year for the role, but declined to accept the Oscar.

Reagan has vowed to serve just two four-year terms as governor. After that, he's "keeping my options open" including a possible try for the U.S. Senate in 1974.

"I'm not going to speculate," Reagan said. "I'm going to see how I feel as I come closer to the day. I can't really believe that I will want to put down totally my interest in public life."

Insurance Agents At Cape Session

CAPE GIRARDEAU — About 100 area life insurance agents will attend a sales seminar Friday at Southeast Missouri State College.

Participating with the college's department of business administration and business education in sponsoring the seminar are the Southeast Missouri Life Underwriters' Association, the Cape Girardeau Life Underwriters' Association, and Poplar Bluff Life Underwriters' Association, and the Five States' Chapter of Certified Life Underwriters.

The seminar in the ballroom of Memorial Hall on the campus will begin with registration at 9 a. m. Opening speaker at the morning session will be E. Victor Williams, an assistant professor of business at Southeast Missouri State.

Dr. Gene A. Loftis, head of the department of business administration and business education at Southeast Missouri State, will preside over a luncheon at noon.

Presiding over portions of the program will be Alex Cantrell, general agent for Continental Assurance Company and president of the Cape Girardeau Life Underwriters' Association; Sonny P. Aydt, general manager for Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Cape Girardeau; and Donald B. Wall of Kennett, a State Farm agent and president of the Southeast Missouri Life Underwriters' Association.

U.S. Cuts Funds For Bangladesh

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has canceled more than 60 per cent of the $158 million President Nixon has said was committed for humanitarian relief in Bangladesh, State Department officials say.

Although department spokesman Charles W. Bray stated earlier this week that the $158million figure is an "accurate statement of the commitment," other officials now indicate $97.8 million has been cut off "because it is no longer needed."

The disclosure seems sure to rekindle the quarrel between the department and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who has accused the administration of misleading the public over the American commitment to the nation formerly known as East Pakistan.

Department sources told The Associated Press $44.2 million in food and a small amount of home-building materials were delivered to East Pakistan between November 1970 when the nation was devestated by a cyclone and December 1971 when the Indian-Pakistani war broke out.

Since aid was resumed this year, the officials said, about $16 million has been delivered, is on the way or is available for shipment.

"The rest of it has been canceled," one State Department official said, because the original purpose of the assistance, to prevent famine, has been accomplished.

One source was asked why, if the $97.8 million were no longer necessary, President Nixon had asked Congress this week for $100 million more for South Asia relief. The source replied that the President's new request will provide a margin to meet new conditions as they arise in Bangladesh, while the previously committed aid was for a problem now solved.

Scientists maintain that the human brain can retain about 10 million bits of information which it can retrieve at random. The World Almanac notes that the famous English naturalist Charles Darwin once professed: "The brain of an ant is one of the most marvelous atoms of matter in the world, perhaps more so than the brain of man."

The early bird gets the worm—very faint inducement to us for arising at dawn.

Cross swiming class. While here he meet Ray Melton, superintendant of the R-2 school district, accepted a job offer and now calls East Prairie home.

"I had two years in pre-pharmacy at Memphis State and the University of Tennessee., when I entered the army and after spending two years in France in public relations I returned to Memphis and through my work with children overseas, I decided to change my major to elementary education," Euer said. Following graduation he taught grades one through six at Trenor Private school in Memphis for one year prior to moving to East Praiire.

While in Memphis the mayor presented him keys to the city for his work with under priviledged children.

His plans for summer vacation are laid out. For the fifth year he will be assistant director at Camp Waupaca, a private boys camp in Wisconsin; teach for the fourth year a learn to swim class in East Prairie; continue his Boy Scout program; serve as water safety instructor for Mississippi county and preside as Kiwanis club president.

When asked how he found time to accomplish so much he answered;

"Things you enjoy, you find time for and when you feel they are appreciated, it makes it all worth while."

Each undertaking is planned and recorded on paper, another time consuming job.

His answer to that, "I type fast."

A rare man, is Mike Euer.

Indians Ready For Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Start the season, Mr. Schedulemaker. Two of Cleveland's most important Indians are ready right now.

Distressed over the poorest record in baseball last season, General Manager Gabe Paul did a little shopping over the winter and came up with a couple of big names—pitcher Gaylord Perry and outfielder Alex Johnson.

Perry, acquired from San Francisco for Sam McDowell in an exchange of pitching superstars, must assume Sudden Sam's position of leadership of the staff. And he showed he was ready for that challenge with six shutout innings in Cleveland's 8-2 victory over San Diego in an exhibition game Wednesday.

Johnson, the American League's batting champion two years ago,but a washout last season, jolted his second homer of the spring and added a single. And nobody said a thing about his hustle.

Johnny Bench, as might be expected, and Bobby Brooks, as might not be expected, both had two homers apiece in Wednesday's action.

Bench, Cincinnati's slugging catcher, connected twice against Baltimore, driving in three Reds' runs.

Brooks, a non-roster outfielder trying to win a spot with the Oakland A's, drilled his second and third homers of the spring and added a single, driving in four runs in a 12-1 romp over California.

Joe Rudi, Brant Alyea and rookie Greg Schubert also homered for Oakland.

Rookie Carlton Fisk, mired in a 1-for-15 spring slump, snapped out of it with a two-run homer that gave Boston a 2-0 decision over St. Louis—the fifth straight loss for the Cardinals.

The Chicago Cubs managed only one hit over the first six innings but packed nine runs in their last two swings for an 11-2 victory over the Tokyo Lotte Orions.

Shortstop Rick Auerbach collected four consecutive singles as Milwaukee's 15-hit attack wore down San Francisco 9-4.

Johnny Edwards drove in three runs with a single and double as Houston blanked Atlanta 4-0.

Norm Cash and Aurelio Rodriguez cracked home runs and Detroit thumped Kansas City 62.

Four Pittsburgh errors—two of them wild pickoff throws by pitcher Jim Nelson—helped the New York Mets to a 9-4 victory over the Pirates.

The Phillies took the Chicago White Sox 8-6, taking control with a three-run sixth inning against Joe Horlen.

Don Sutton and Claude Osteen shared a five-hitter as the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Montreal 5-0.

The New York Yankees suffered their fifth shutout in 13 spring starts from Minnesota.

Stars To Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD — Southeast Missouri basketball fans will have the opportunity to catch the Harlem Stars in action March 24 at 8 p.m. when the clowns of the hardwood display their talents in the high school gymnasium. Game time will be at 8 p.m., but don't miss the pre-game warm-up. The Stars are a combination of basketball stars touring the world making fans laugh.

"The world is our audience," says Owner Boid Buie. "Send fans home laughing, and we can continue to return for years to come," he said.

The Stars never try to run up a huge score against opponents. It is their policy to keep the game close, devoting much time to comedy.

WINS OUTDOOR PRIZE

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — "My Pal, My Son," a 27-minute 16 mm color film featuring Jerry Chiappetta and his son, Jerry, 10, on a fishing excursion into the Canadian wilderness, won first prize in the 1971 National Travel-Outdoors Film Festival.

THREE RIVERS COMMUNITY COLLEGE signed its first basketball prospect for next year as Charleston's Albri Cassell inked a letter of intent for Raider coach Gene Bess this weekend. Cassell as an outstanding performer for the Charleston squad throughout his career as a Bluejay, and will join former teammate, Henry Hall, a freshman on the Raider's team this season.

Torre Ready To Pinch Hit

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Joe Torre was scheduled today for pinch-hitting, perhaps just the tonic the St. Louis Cardinals need to burst out of a tedious slump in major league spring training.

The Cards, punchless without the bat of the National League MVP in 1971, bowed again Wednesday to the Boston Red Sox 2-0, collecting only five hits.

The Red Sox managed only three off as many Cardinal hurlers, but one was a home run by rookie Carlton Fisk that followed Mike Fiore's single in the eighth. Jose Cruz had two of the hits for the Cards, who have scored only five runs in losing all five exhibition games. The club is scoreless the last 21 innings.

"I'd rather be 0-5 now than 05 April 12," Coach Ken Boyer commented, however. Bob Gibson and reliever Joe Grzenda were scheduled to pitch this afternoon at Al Lang Field against the Houston Astros.

Busch Ready For Strike

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Major league owners should call the hand of the Baseball Players Association in demands for more pension fund money, St. Louis Cardinals owner August A. Busch Jr. said Wednesday.

"I'm against knuckling under—and you can quote me," Busch told St. Louis GlobeDemocrat sports writer Jack Herman in reference to demands by the association for $700,000 annual pension increases.

The Cardinals and eight other clubs have voted to strike, possibly before the season begins, unless club owners boost their annual pension contributions to $6.1 million.

"I think the fans are getting fed up with this side of baseball," Busch said. "I'm certainly not going to offset the money we pay the players by increasing our ticket prices."

State Fair Eliminated

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Top-seeded Vincennes, Ind., defeated Paducah, Ky., 96-85 and Gulf Coast, Fla., nipped Casper, Wyo., 89-86 in double overtime in the second round of the National Junior College Basketball Tournament Wedne day night.

In a loser's bracket game, Dalton, Ga., ousted State Fair of Sedalia, Mo., 90-83.

Seminole, Okla., edged Burlington, Iowa, 59-56 and Tyler, Tex., whipped Robert Morris of Carthage, Ill., 95-79 to round out first-round play in day games.

Bill Butler poured in 34 points to top Vincennes which pulled away from Paducah in the second half. Alvin Hendricks was high point man for Paducah.

Joe Johnson's tip-in with 27 seconds left in the second overtime was the margin of Gulf Coast's victory. The teams were tied 72-72 at the end of regulation play and 80-80 after the first overtime period. Butch Taylor finished with 21 points for Gulf Coast; Ken Morgan had 19 for Casper.

Four losers' bracket games were on tap this afternoon. Arizona Western met Erie, N.Y.; Burlington, Iowa, played Carthage, Ill.; Paducah faced Casper, and Hutchinson was against Ulster County, N.Y.

Tonight's quarter-finals finds Southern Idaho and Ferrum, W.Va., playing and Seminole and Tyler meeting.

UCLA Begins Defense Of Championship

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Weber State's basketball team is short, slow and can't shoot very well.

But the Wildcats last weekend demolished a tall, quick Hawaii team that averaged 92 points a game.

Tonight, the Wildcasts, 18-9, meet No. 1 UCLA, who have won 26 games this year without a loss and have a 41-game victory streak, in the first game of the opening round of the NCAA Far-West Regional tournament.

The Bruins are seeking their eighth NCAA title in nine seasons.

Long Beach State, 24-3, meets San Francisco, 19-7, in the second game and the winners collide on national television Saturday.

Weber ranked seventh in the Big Sky conference in shooting accuracy but was 10th in the nation in defense, holding opponents to under 65 points a game.

Sophomore Makes All-America Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walton, UCLA's lantern-jawed tower of strength, and Dwight Lamar, the nation's leading scorer from Southwestern Louisiana, were named today to the Associated Press' 1971-72 AllAmerica basketball team.

The two stars, both dominating forces in their regions, were joined by Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State, Jim Chones of Marquette's and Tom Riker of South Carolina.

Walton, a 6-foot-11 center and the only sophomore on the first team, has been compared favorably to Kareem Abdul Jabber (nee Lew Alcindor) and Bill Russell in their college days.

"I've never seen a player who makes the outlet pass and starts the fast break as well," said UCLA Coach John Wooden, who coached Jabbar and saw Russell play at San Francisco.

Lamar, one of the best shooters in the country in recent history, could become the only player to win the scoring title in both the college and university divisions. The 6-foot-1 ace was the college division leader last season when the Ragin' Cajuns were in that class and appears well on his way this year now that they've stepped up to major college status. He's averaging 36.7 a game in his junior year.

Ratleff, a junior guard who averaged almost 22 points a game this year, also was one of the team's toughest rebounders. Strong and quick at 6-6, Ratleff has been described as the best college guard in America since the day of Oscar Robertson and Jerry West.

The 6-11 Chones was Marquette's big strength before signing with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association late in the season. Before leaving college, he scored almost 21 points and averaged 12 rebounds in 21 games of his junior season.

The 6-10 Riker, the only senior on the big team, was an outstanding forward in clutch situations. He averaged nearly 20 points and 10 rebounds a game.

"He's the best pro prospect in the country," said South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire of the beefy Riker.

Based on votes from sports writers and broadcasters around the nation, the second team All-America included Barry Parkhill of Virginia, Dwight Davis of Houston, Jim Price of Louisville, Henry Bibby of UCLA and Robert McAdoo of North Carolina.

The third team included Richie Fuqua of Oral Roberts; Princeton's Brian Taylor; Maryland's Tom McMillen; Bud Stallworth of Kansas, and Wil Robinson of West Virginia.

Liquor Supervisor Pressures Sportservice

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Detailed disclosures of persons owning financiial interests in its operations were demanded Tuesdday from Sportservice Corp., food and drink concessionaire at the city's major sports facilitids.

State liquor supervisor Courtney Goodman Jr. said the corporation, a subsidiary of Emprise Corp., failed to list individuals who have interests in the parent company in its current application for beer and liquor licenses.

Unless the disclosures accompany the next application, he said, Sportservice may be unable to obtain a new license in July.

Goodman, appointed liquor supervisor last month, said last week he would attempt to put subsidiaries of Emprise out of business in Missouri if the parent company is discovered to have hoodlum ties.

Sportservice operates concessions at Busch Memorial Stadium and the Arena and has concessions also at Kiel Auditorium through its subsidiary, Missouri Sportservice, Inc.

Another Emprise subsidiary, B & L Concessions, does business in Kansas City.

NCAA Tourney Begins

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Prolific Southwestern Louisiana and super shooter Dwight Lamar will be in the limelight tonight in first-round play in the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament.

The Ragin' Cajuns, playing their first year in the university division, take a 24-3 record record and an eighth ranking into the regional opener against fourth-rated Louisville, 22-3.

A pair of unranked teams— Texas, 19-7, and Big Eight Conference champion Kansas State, 18-8,—slug it out in the other game in the new Hilton Coliseum on the Iowa State University campus.

"We didn't scout Southwestern, but we know they are a fine shooting ball club," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum, who is seeking a regional title that probably would match his team against top-ranked UCLA.

Crum, who was an assistant at UCLA under Johnny Wooden, said he expected Southwestern to employ a fast-breaking type of game.

"Our defense this season has been pretty good," Crum noted, "but we haven't faced anybody that scores like Southwestern."

Southwestern finished second nationally in scoring with a 97.8 point mark and upped that regular season average with a 112-101 bouncing of No. 12 Marshall in a regional qualifying game last Saturday.

Southwestern's attack is led by Junior Lamar, who was the nation's leading scorer with a 36.7 average, and 6-foot-9 Roy Ebron, a 61 per cent shooter from the floor who has averaged 23.6 points and 14 rebounds.

Lamar has hit 40 or more points 12 times and twice scored 51 points as his team ran up scores of more than 100 on 12 occasions.

"We turned the ball over quite a bit against Marshall," said Southwestern Coach Berly Shipley.

Sales Award To McConnells

The McConnell brothers, Earl and Gerald, owners of McConnels Magnavox Home Entertainment Center in the Kingsway Plaza Mall were presented with a check for more than $2,400 for sales by Dennis Greenway, regional sales manager for the Magnavox Company in Fort Wayne, Ind.

"The check is in recognition for the outstanding sales record the McConnels achieved in 1971," Greenway said. "Their sales have increased 36.5 per cent since their move to the Kingsway Plaza Mall."

"We feel by being located at the Mall therefore getting the increased exposure to the public, has been one of the factors contributing to this extra business," Earl McConnell said.

"Magnavox is proud of these two McConnell brothers, and their wives, Faye and Judy, too, for the excellent job they've done in 1971," Greenway said. "January and February 1972 sales figure showed a 28.3 per cent increase over 1971.

Mental Illness Divorce Barrier

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Howard, by nature, was a gentle, kind and considerate soul. Overwork, however, and severe financial reverses, suddenly and completely reversed his entire disposition to the point that, emotionally, he was closer to the edge than Columbus ever got. And, it was his poor wife Hilda who caught the brunt of it. Not only did he become highly critical of her, but he also became extremely jealous and began to accuse her of having affairs with the butcher, the baker and the electrician. Finally, unable to take it any longer, Hilda sued to end their marriage.

"My husband's jealousy is driving me mad," she complained in court. "We went to a party the other night and when he heard me mention Michael Angelo, he promptly accused me of carrying on with both of them."

"How was I supposed to know who Michael Angelo was," Howard replied; "Lately, I've been having enough trouble trying to remember who I am. Under the circumstances, my wife shouldn't be allowed to walk out on me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you free Hilda from her suspicious husband?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when a person is suffering from a mental illness, he is not accountable for his actions. Divorces, noted the judge, are granted because of the fault of a person and not for his misfortunes. (Based upon a 1964 Missouri Court of Appeals D[illegible]ision)

Theodore Roosevelt proposed a "New Nationalism" policy in 1910, requesting that the U.S. government initiate progressive reforms in the interest of public welfare. Roosevelt asked for federal regulation and control of corporations and conservation of natural resources, reforms he felt state governments could not legislate effectively. The World Almanac says.

JAMES THE ELDER

James, the son of Zebedee and the brother of John, was probably know to Jesus from childhood. His parents, Zebedee and Salome, were regarded as kinsfolk of Joseph and Mary. This family was eager, aggressive, and determined about the Good News of Jesus. Perhaps too strong, like the time that James suggested that Jesus call down fire upon an insulting Samaritan village that would not receive the Apostles. Or the occasion when he and brother John challenged the credentials of someone healing in Jesus' name. Small wonder they were called "sons of thunder."

Mother Salome was not bashful either, asking for top positions in the coming Kingdom for her boys. Yet, for all the faults and self-seeking, this was a gallant and courageous crew. James the Elder was a true witness for the Christ, being the first of the disciples to die for the faith.

Bid To Tighten Drunken Driver Law Advances

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill to make it easier to crack down on drunken drivers won first round approval in the Missouri Senate Tuesday without a whisper of opposition.

It was advanced to position for passage on a unanimous voice vote.

Under present law a driver with .15 of 1 per cent of alcohol in his blood is considered intoxicated. The bill advanced today would lower the standard to .10 of 1 per cent of alcohol.

Sen. James A. Noland, ROsage Beach, noted alcohol has been blamed for many traffic deaths and many states have adopted the .10 of 1 per cent standard recommended by safety experts.

There was no debate—a sharp contrast with the situation when the .15 of 1 per cent law was passed. That took days of argument.

The Senate also started debate on a "mini" no-fault divorce bill sponsored by Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, but had to lay it over when a legal question arose.

The bill would add two grounds for divorce——incompatibility leading to a breakdown of a marriage and irreconcilable differences causing an irremedial breakdown in the opinion of the court.

24 Apply For City Manager

The city council will meet tomorrow to discuss 24 applications received for the city manager's position.

Raymert Miller, city manager since February of 1961, will leave the post April 15, to join the staff of a construction company.

The city has been advertising the vacancy in the International City Management Association newsletter since Miller submitted his resignation, Feb. 8.

Miller said the council will weed out applicants before making contact with the men for interviews.

He said he thought the council could have a manager selected by April 15, but because of the lack of time doubted the man could be in the office by then. In that case, Bill Whitlock, assistant city manager, probably will manage affairs until the new manager arrived, Miller said.

New Public Defender Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A new version of a public defender bill is now ready for Senate debate but it is far down on the calendar.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved it Wednesday as a substitute for a bill already passed by the House. It would require public defenders to handle felonies in circuits over 75,000 population with court appointed attorneys handling the cases of indigent defendants in small circuits.

Earlier the Senate passed and sent to the House a bill which provided for court appointed attorneys as counsel for indigents, to work for a fee set by the courts.

The Supreme Court has ruled that after Sept. 1 it will no longer require court appointed attorneys to defend indigents for nothing, leaving the problem for the legislature to solve.

Wednesday afternoon the Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to increase the pay of the secretary of state from $20,000 to $25,000 a year.

It killed a bill that would have allowed banks in third class counties to set up banking facilities beyond the city limits in small towns 10 miles away. Opponents said it was a step toward branch banking.

Four-Year Governor Term

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate gave first round approval today to a constitutional amendment that would go back to the old limitation of one four-year term for a governor.

The vote was 15-11, three short of the 18 that will be needed when the proposal comes up for passage later.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, DHillsboro, a Democratic candidate for governor, sponsored the proposal. He said giving a governor the right to succeed himself had turned out to be a mistake, as shown by the second term of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Blackwell charged the twoterm plan "gives the executive far too much power," including tremendous power over the appointment of judges, heads of state agencies and members of state commissions.

He charged Hearnes had become a dictator, twisting the arms of legislators to get his bills passed. He predicted that if the people were given a chance to vote on the issue again, they would return to the one-term limitation.

May 22 Nixon-Moscow Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will leave May 22 for Moscow to hold summit talks with Soviet leaders, the White House announced today.

Nixon, the White House said, will discuss with the Soviets "all major issues with a view toward further improving bilateral relations and enhancing the prospects for world peace."

The White House statement was issued simultaneously here and in Moscow.

Nixon said last Oct. 12 he would go to Moscow after his historic trip last month to mainland China.

The White House gave no indication as to the length of Nixon's stay in the Russian capital. However, it is expected the duration will be about the same as it was in China—one week.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the exact number of days for the visit was still being discussed. But he said, "I think you could assume that the visit will last about a week."

Mrs. Nixon will accompany the President as she did when her husband, then vice president in the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, first visited Moscow.

It was on that trip that Nixon engaged in his historic "kitchen debate" with then Soviet Premier, the late Nikita Khrushchev.

The brief statement announcing the departure date said: As had been announced previously, Nixon's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers will accompany him on the trip.

Absentee Ballots Ready

Absentee ballots for Tuesday's city primary election may be picked up at City Clerk John Vaughn's office. The ballots must be returned to his office by 4:30 p.m. Monday.

The absentee ballots will be opened and counted on Tuesday morning. The ballot will include the names of seven council candidates vying for a spot on the April 4 ballot. No absentee ballots have been filed in Vaughn's office.

Voters in the election will select four candidates, two for each seat open.

Candidates listed on the ballot will be W.A. Alliston, Jr., Kenneth Bridges, Virginia M. Waters, Theon E. Grojean, Jr., Bill Ryan, Eulalene Morris, and Frank Ferrell.

Three Arrests For Breakins

CHARLESTON — Felix Ray Jr., 17, James Owens Jr., 17, and Frederick Williams, 19, all of East Prairie, were arrested at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday by Mississippi County Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons and Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie following a 10-day investigation into a series of breakins in Mississippi county.

Simmons said charges of breaking, entering, and stealing are expected to be filed this afternoon and bonds set.

Statements were signed by the trio, Simmons said, admitting these breakins and thefts in East Prairie: Winchester Chevrolet, Jackson's Service Station, Bright's Feed Store, McTigue Construction Co, Mobil Station, and the East Prairie high school.

The three, the sheriff said, admitted to breaking into Galemore Motors and the Mississippi County Bowling Lanes in Charleston and Blumenberg Service Station in Anniston.

The youths admitted to taking eight or 10 stereos and tapes from cars, Simmons said. Some items have been recovered and efforts to recover others are being made.

$8,000 Doniphan Theft

DONIPHAN — Thieves entered a doctor's office and drug store between 10:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. last night and took $8,000 in drugs and other items.

According to the highway patrol, the breakin occurred in a building occupied by Dr. Gene Leroux and the City Drug Store.

About $6,000 worth of Cameras, electric shavers, watches, alarm clocks, drugs, razors, and other items was stolen from the drug store.

About $2,000 in drugs was taken from the doctor's office.

Weight Collapsed Bridge

IT IS TOO COLD for a swim was probably the thought of Steve Ferrell and Mike Berry. They plunged off a bridge four miles northeast of Miner. The Ferrell Coal Company dump truck was loaded with dirt at the time. Neither was hurt as the rotting bridge collapsed into the Wolf Hole ditch.

Charleston R-1 School Board Hires Counsel

CHARLESTON -- The R-1 board of education Wednesday night voted to employ Joslyn and Joslyn as legal counsel for the district at a retaining fee of $1,800 for 12 months.

The firm was represented at the meeting by Albert Tindall.

Herbert Marshall, board director, requested that it be a matter of record that he had talked with High School Principal Sherrill Summitt explaining his position on Marshall's statement recorded in the minutes of the Feb. 18 board meeting. Marshall told Summitt that he still had an obligation to the district if Summitt stayed in his position and he was still going to have a lot of trouble.

Marshall said Summitt told him he was looking for another position and if he found a suitable one he would leave, but if he did not, he expected the district to honor his contract.

The board heard a report from Terry Rowe on education for the handicapped.

A tentative calendar for the 1972-73 school year, recommended by Superintendent Tom Wells, was approved.

A letter from the Cairo high school principal and head football coach requesting the renewal of the annual Shrine football charity classic game was read. The board voted to give permission to schedule Friday night football games and basketball games with Cairo.

Three representatives from window manufacturers demonstrated their products. Bids from the companies on windows for the junior high school building were taken but will be opened later.

$400,000 Pickup

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri State Highway Department set another record in 1971, spending $495,802 picking up after litterbugs along the state's highways.

Tomas A. David, director of highways, noted that costs of trash pickup have exceeded $400,000 for the past five years.

"We keep hoping all this concern being voiced for the quality of the environment will take hold," David said. "But it doesn't seem to have affected highway littering.

"We all agree that littering is a bad thing; still, people go ahead and do it anyway. Not maliciously, I'm sure, but just without thinking."

Costs were particularly high in St. Louis, $25,550, St. Louis County $76,546, and Jackson County, $60,950.

The highway department urged motorists to keep litterbags in their cars, and will furnish them free. Officials also urged interested groups to volunteer the manpower to clean up the highway rights-of-way and said plastic bags and trucks would be furnished by the department.

Hammer Victim Improving

Mrs. Beulah Wyse, found beaten in her home Feb. 29, regained consciousness yesterday and has been removed from the intensive care ward of Methodist hospital in Memphis.

Chief of Police Arthur O. Bruce, said he had been informed by the woman's doctor that police can question her in about a week. He said police hope that Mrs. Wyse can identify her attacker.

Suspects have been questioned and released. A woman was taken to highway patrol headquarters in Poplar Bluff yesterday for a lie detector test, which she passed. A man, who was to have been tested, was ill and will be given it later Bruce said.

Mrs. Wyse was beaten with a hammer in her bedroom by an unidentified assailant moments after she arrived home with her six-year-old daughter.

The daughter described the attacker as a light-skinned Negro male, about five feet nine inches, with long hair.

Fire Sirens To Warn Of Storms

Glenn Greene, director of Scott County civil defense and circulation manager of the Daily Standard, told members of the Lions club at its meeting Wednesday that tornadoes are the main concern of civil defense in the Sikeston area.

Greene, who was appointed director by the county court, explained that the main problem is alerting people of a disaster in the middle of the night.

"Statistics show most tornadoes occur between 1 a.m. and 7 a.m. while most people are sleeping," he said.

The only answer he said, was for the fire department to sound the sirens on their five cars at full blast to awaken people.

"Believe me, if that car comes down your street, you'll hear it," he said.

He explained that civil defense is government at all levels performing emergency functions. He said the duty of the director is to help coordinate the offices of the county into a single unit.

"The co-ordinators in the six-county Bootheel area are securing a hot line in Malden connected to the weather bureau in St. Louis," Greene said.

Nixon To Outline Plan For
School Busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today President Nixon will go on radio and television at 10 o'clock Eastern Standard Time tonight to outline his recommendations on the school busing issue.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon will speak for about 10 minutes to outline recommendations which will be contained in a formal message to be sent to the Congress Friday.

The White House said earlier Nixon would not go on public television or make any speech on his recommendations. Ziegler said the President changed his mind after finalizing details of his recommendation at Camp David, Md.

Ziegler said results of Tuesday's Florida primary election in which voters overwhelmingly endorsed a constitutional amendment against busing and in which antibusing candidate George Wallace won the Democratic preferential voting had nothing to do with the President's decision to make a television speech on busing.

Nixon went to his Camp David retreat Tuesday night to work on details of the legislative package which he will propose to Congress Friday and a general statement on his position on busing. He conferred there with top level domestic advisers.

Ziegler said Nixon would return to the White House this afternoon to put finishing touches on his speech and to broadcast from the White House.

Nixon has said on several occasions that he is opposed in principle to the use of massive busing for the sake of achieving racial balance in public schools. He said, however, that orders of the courts must be carried out.

Ziegler said Nixon was using an address to the nation "to put into perspective the complexities of a problem that the President feels is a major problem."

Ziegler added the formal message which goes to Congress Friday will be much more detailed than those in his address tonight. There have been reports the President will not seek a constitutional amendment on the busing question but will take instead a legislative approach.

Ziegler, in response to questions, said the President already had "a measure of the problem and considered it a major problem" before the Florida primary and was not influenced by the voting.

Meanwhile civil rights leader Roy Wilkins told a House subcommittee he understands Nixon has decided not to back a proposed antibusing Constitutional amendment.

"But in our estimation he will go for something just as bad," said Wilkins, without being specific.

"Our President has made his choice," Wilkins said. "He is leading the mob which is tearing at the concept of equal protection of the law."

Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP and chairman of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, told a House Judiciary subcommittee that Nixon's stand is embittering blacks but will strengthen rather than weaken their resolve to get the best education for their children.

Missing Woman

WITTENBERG, Mo. (AP) — A search continued today for a young woman whose abandoned car was discovered Tuesday on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi River near here.

Sheriff Marvin Lukefahr of Perry County identified the missing woman as Betty Mueller, 22, of Cape Girardeau. He said Miss Mueller's car was driven onto the bluff and stopped when it ran into a ditch.

The Coast Guard conducted dragging operations in the river south of Wittenberg Wednesday, and authorities were continuing their search of the shoreline today.

Nursing Board

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Board of Nursing has received national approval under the federal Nurse Training Act.

"Now that the national approval has been granted," Vivian D. Meinecke, executive secretary of the board said, "any nursing school in Missouri accredited by the board is eligible for federal funds."

Missouri has 35 professional nursing programs and 26 licensed practical nursing programs operating now.

Prior to the new four-year federal authority from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, schools had to go through the National League of Nursing for approval before receiving federal aid.

Euer Unveils Magic Carpet
Students Find Adventure In East Prairie Classes

By SHIRLEY PRITCHETT

EAST PRAIRIE –Tucked away in childhood memories are remembrances of a favorite teacher, the one who made learning enjoyable, a challenge, and perhaps instilled the desire to pursue knowledge furthur than the required assignments.

Fourth grade students of the A.J. Martin School will remember Michael Euer as an unusual teacher.

Stepping into his classroom is a trip to adventure land. Depending on the subject, the student may find yourself in Alaska, Japan, Egypt, or the Amazon. His appraoch to teaching is fun, yet serious, and with the use of gimmicks, as he calls them, students are made aware of more than the fundamentals of learning.

His homeroom is divided into teams, each having elected officers which change every two weeks, giving each student the opportunity to serve in an elected position.

"Seeing a slow student being coached by a more advanced student in order to advance their team is very rewarding," Euer said. "Limited competition with a purpose in a classroom is good but too much competetion is very bad, so by using the team approach I feel we accomplish more," he said. "Seeing a child succeed is perhaps the greatest thrill one can experience," he added.

Stock market math is one of the many gimmicks Euer has been using with success. A classroom newspaper with a financial section is printed and from there the New York Stock Exchange, East Prairie branch, goes into operation. students add, divide, multiply and subtract their stock prices and record them on graphs.

"We operate on the English language," Euer explained. Students wear surgical masks and the tests are the patients. Each child is dubbed an intern at the first of the year and a chart is posted, showing test results. If a test is failed, the patient dies.

Social Studies classes find the students visiting different countries. At the conclusion of the studies of Japan, a Japanese dinner is served, complete with chopsticks, and a menu of bird's nest soup, chow mein, fried rice, green tea and fortune cookies.

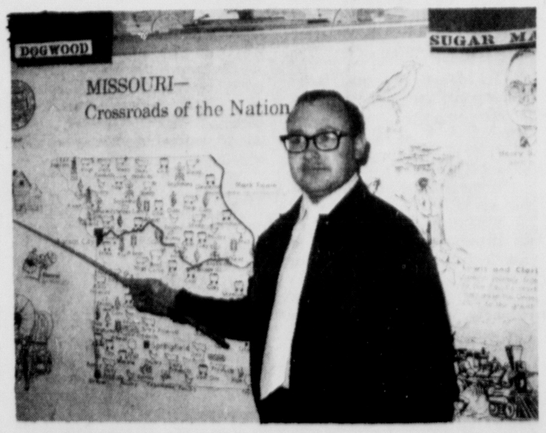
"We don't have parties, we call them happenings," he said. At Christmas the birth of Christ is reinacted. Valentine's Day becomes a royal coronation, with a king and queen, knights and ladies. Each child in the class is included in a special way and parents are invited.

King Tut's Tomb is a favorite of the students. Each becomes an archaeologist and enters the tomb to dig for answers on math tests.

Another favorite gimmick is called war. Again the team effort is employed and each has it's official uniforms, t-shirts stenciled with their selected coat of arms. Each group has a flag which is raised only if its team has accumulated the highest number of points in a given time and the winners are treated to a big sundae.

"Teaching gives me the greatest enjoyment but the scouting program ranks a close second," Euer said.

EDUCATION CAN BE FUN as well as challenging. Mike Euer, fourth grade teacher in the A. J. Martin school, East Prairie, with students Donna Turnbo and Keith Grisby at the puppet theater.



FRONTIER HISTORY OF Missouri is explained by Mike Euer to fourth grade students in the A. J. Martin school in East Prairie.

Activily involved in the Scout program, he first served as cubmaster, then Webelos leader and is now ScoutMaster of troop 37. Under his leadership the East Prairie scouting program has been credited by Okeechobee leaders with being the most active in the district. Camping trips, cave explorations and hikes are almost monthly happenings and plans are being formulated for a trip to Washington D.C.

During the 24 years which Euer has been involved in scouting, from Cub Scouts to scoutings highest rank of Eagle, awards and honors have been given to him. One award of which he is especially proud is the wood badge, the highest training award earned by volunteer scouters. This was presented in a ceremony in Germany by Lady Baden Powell, wife of the founder of the Boy Scouts program.

He has taught in Scout camps over the United States, directed a French-American Scout camp in France and in 1962 accompanied a group to the World Jamboree in Athens, Greece.

Family togetherness is important to him. He and his wife, the former Miss Georgia Churchwell, who teaches corrective reading in the Martin school, have two children, David, two, and Elizabeth, two months.

Five years ago he came to East Prairie to teach a Red

COULD IT BE WOMAN'S LIP?

Sometimes we wonder whether it could be Woman's Lip that is throwing so much weight. For example, one prominent Woman's Liberationist recently said, before the National Press Club in Boston:

"The marriage contract is unconstitutional.

"Richard Nixon is the most sexually insecure chief of state since Napoleon.

"This (woman's liberation) is a sexual revolution, not a reform.

"The law-abiding side of women's liberation is over because they have discovered that law and justice are not always related.

"In regard to divorce, we should do away with alimony, and instead those who choose to be housewives should receive legally determined portions of their husbands' salaries for which they do not have to account."

The "woman's liberation" movement is not a revolution but just one more act in the mental warfare that now seeks to engage the nation.

Women who decide to take the law into their own hands will discover that they are holding a burning issue. Others have tried it to their dismay.

POISON PREVENTION
WEEK

Because young kids will eat almost anything, accidental poisonings remain the most common medical emergency facing young children. Some 70,000 cases of accidental poisonings among children under five years of age were reported to the federal government's Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers in 1970. At least 200 children under five died each year as a result of ingestion of poisonous substances.

To call attention to the problem, the U. S. Public Health Service has set aside the week beginning Sunday, March 19, as National Poison Prevention Week. A spokesman for the Council on Family Health, a nonprofit organization sponsored by medicine manufacturers, points out that poisonings are not dramatic events and are not often reported by the press. This explains in part why people are not sufficiently concerned with the problem.

Congress in 1970 passed the Poison Prevention Packaging Act. It made mandatory special child-resistant packaging on certain products commonly involved in poisonings. And the availability of a network of 550 poison control centers to give quick guidance to frantic parents also has saved many lives. But the key to preventing this type of tragedy lies in the awareness of parents that hazardous substances must be kept out of the reach of children in the home.

WINTER'S SURRENDER

March is an unpredictable prankster. It cannot seem to make up its mind. It may come in like a lion or it may be amiable with warm breezes and blue skies. But a philosophical countryman refuses to be perturbed; he knows that the vernal change is at hand.

It isn't logical to expect a winter to surrender suddenly. A suitable introduction to spring requires just so much time. Snows must melt; a flow of maple sap needs crisp, star-lit nights and melting days. It takes a little time for the red hue to deepen in the twigs of swamp maples.

There are days of gusty winds that sway elms in the meadows and lift funnels of grass and dust which whirl like miniature tornadoes across bare fields. Winter's chains are not loosened yet, but each day the time is nearer when they will snap.

The land awakens slowly. The bare strip widens on the south side of the woodlot; pussy willows poke out furred noses; buds are swelling on the lilac by the kitchen door. Winter's grip is not broken but we know it is ending.

Hours of daylight lengthen and the miracle is nearing. The introduction comes unevenly, but each day makes it more certain. March is a prankster but it always tells the truth.

Both the variety and the area where the potatoes are grown are important factors affecting their baking quality. THAT BIG
TAX CUT

While some members of Congress and the Nixon Administration have misled us to believe we're getting a big tax cut, before the average American gets too excited about a federal tax reduction to be expected this year and next, he had better calm down. The much-touted multi-billion-dollar tax reduction that is supposed to be on the way isn't.

Let's look at the family of four with an income of $10,000 last year. Last year taxes withheld from the breadwinner's pay averaged $19.90 a week for this family. This year with the "big" tax reduction the withholding will be $19.70 a week. The family gets 20 cents a week. or $10.40 for the year, more spendable income as far as the income tax is concerned. At the same time the breadwinner's Social Security tax is increased this year by $52.00. That means the family comes out with $41.60 more out of its income than last year.

The single man is even worse off, if his income is $10,000. Last year his withholding for federal income tax was $31 a week. This year his Social Security tax also will rise $52, making a total increase of taxes taken from his pay of about $150 for the year.

All this is supposed to "spur the economy" by increased consumer spending. How can the consumer spend more when he takes in less? Only a federal tax "expert" can explain that.

MARCH METAMORPHOSIS

March. The very sound of the word rings with exuberance. Up and at 'em. Forward and onward. Movement. The exuberance of release from winter's grip, swathed in heavy coats, deep in boots, muffled in scarves, encased in glove and mitten. Knuckling under to the discipline of scraping ice and shoveling snow. Perhaps for moments still forced to endure more of the same, but easier by far to take in March because all signs tell that soon these trials will disappear in spring's welcome return.

Nature already raises its signal flags of victory in its struggle for survival in the face of killing cold. A storm or two may yet bend the bough before rain and sun nourish and coax. But between winter's closing thrusts winds dally with kites instead of snowsheets, tossing excited cries of stringholders across the meadow. Joyous shouts mingle with a song sparrow's tune punctuated by the jay's rasping call.

Over the hill the pond ice exchanges its brittle sheen for a melting softness where paw prints pack a meandering trail near the bank. Now the pool's source no longer is secret, a spring welling up to spread its wet circle, a moving black eddy dissolving the frozen lid. Cracks and fissures steak across, veins of age patterning the surface, writing the message of numbered days until skates are stored again down cellar and boys check poles for fishing lines.

March. Straighten up and look about. Shake off the gray of sky and don the blue of springtime days where bright white clouds sail above and lakes grow azure midst a land growing green.

A POINT FOR THE BEARDS

The wonder is not that so many men are sporting beards these days but that men have ever taken the trouble of shaving, especially back in the dark ages before stainless steel blades or electric razors or scented, medicated shaving creams.

"The man who grows a beard because he considers shaving a waste of time has a valid point," says Dr. Herbert Mescon, professor and chairman of the Department of Dermatology at Boston University School of Medicine.

In his 55 or so years of shaving, the average man will spend roughly 3,350 hours, or 139 days, looking at his puss in the mirror while hewing his daily growth of about 0.17 of an inch of hair (roughly ½ inch a month).

But be thankful you don't live in Polynesia, says Mescon. Men there still remove their whiskers with pieces of seashells or sharks' teeth that have been ground to a fine edge.

Of course, maybe they don't have much else to do in Polynesia.

A slave was thrown into a pit with a man-eating lion. When the lion charged, the slave deftly stepped aside and whispered into the lion's ear. The crowd in the arena was dumbfounded to see the lion slink away and cower against the arena wallEveryone demanded to know what charm the slave had used.

"I used no charm, only my commonsense," said the slave. "All I did was tell the lion he'd be expected to say a few words after dinner."

WHERE BUSINESS AND PLEASURE
MEET

An interesting commentary on multiple use versus single use of the nation's forest lands has come from a spokesman for one of the timber companies. He notes that a large acreage of the company's lands in Minnesota has been included in a proposal for a new national park. This, in itself, is not unusual. But, the fact that the area proposed for inclusion in the park has been logged for 27 years, yet is still considered of park caliber, is indeed unusual. As the timberman points out, this would seem to prove"... that timber production and recreation can live together."

The fallacy still persists that there is no alternative to locking up more and more of our commercial forest lands solely for recreational use. The timber official, in referring to the hundreds of recreation proposals made in recent years, declares: "In many instances these proposals would impair the orderly flow of forest products so desperately needed to meet the housing demands of the nation. As a forester, I am equally concerned with the harm such withdrawals are doing to forest management plans aimed at providing a realistic and careful balance between the many uses which a forest can and should provide."

This offical's company strongly favors recreational use of lumber-producing forest lands and has demonstrated its belief in multiple use by opening its forests to the public for recreation purposes at no charge. In Minnesota, where the national park proposal would take over thousands of acres of the company's lands, the public already has free use of 325,000 acres of its land on which there are no restrictions against hunting, trapping, camping or any other legitimate recreational pursuit.

Mixing business and pleasure is usually an unwise procedure; but, when it comes to utilization of the nation's land and forest resources, there is no other course. Recreationists can enjoy them even as farmers and timbermen use them to produce the food, fiber and wood products that are the basis of our existence.

AN EFFECTIVE FORCE
FOR SAFETY

A number of federal regulations have been imposed which are directed toward making the automobile a safer mode of conveyance. But, according to press reports, another form of persuasion on auto manufacturers to build safer cars may make itself felt far more effectively than government regulation. Insurance companies are making safer cars an economic issue.

An insurance company spokesman representing 514 insurance companies points out, for purposes of illustration, that the auto industry, by equipping cars with functional bumpers rather than ornamental pieces of tin, could save its customers $1 billion a year in insurance premiums. Currently, most bumpers "appear to be designed to inflict damage" rather than protect the vehicle. Insurance companies have also found that super=power cars with big engines, air scoops, fat racing tires and manual transmissions account for 56 per cent more accident losses than do conventional models. One major company has announced that it will charge 50 per cent more for insurance coverage on cars of this type.

If car buyers show a preference for economy and safety instead of 400-horsepower Xmas trees, they will most assuredly get them. And, it seems the insurance companies may encourage such a trend.

THE EYES HAVE IT!

Did you hear about the hobo who knocking on the door of a farmhouse, asking for something to eat?

"First, let me show you something," said the farmer's wife, leading him to the woodshed behind which was a pile of uncut wood.

"Do you see this wood?" she said.

"Yeah, I seen it."

"You should say, 'I saw it,' " the farmer's wife corrected.

The bum looked at her and said, "Lady, you saw me see it, but you ain't going to see me saw it!"

INS AND OUTS
OF NEW CARS

Three men at the office were discussing what most people wanted to get out of a new car.

"Dependability," said one. "Styling," demanded another while the third pointed to "Economy."

Just then, a fourth man who recently had bought a new car entered the room. They decided to pose the question to him. "What is the thing you'd like most to get out of your new car?"

"My teenage son!" was the quick reply.

SOVIET WEAPONS
IN SPACE

The soviets are making rapid military advances in space, accordint to a report recently released by the Senate Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee. "Soviet Space Programs, 1966-70," prepared by the scientific experts of the Library of Congress, details Soviet advances in satellite weaponry.

In 1970, for example, the remains of the Soviet Cosmos 316 satellite fell to earth in the United States. The metal pieces were thicker and heavier than that usually used for satellites. Our scientists and technicians concluded that the wreckage closely resembled that of a bomb.

The report also points out that the Soviets are almost certainly continuing to develop two kinds of space weapons. One is the fractional orbital bombardment system (FOBS), which could launch warheads at the U.S. The other is the "inspector/destructor" satellite, which can intercept and destroy other satellites in orbit.

Dr. Charles Sheldon, chief ot the Library of Congress' Science Policy Research Division, stated in the report: "The Soviet Union has worked at the game of making the United States look as bad as possible in doing what is necessary in space defense, while keeping its own freedom of action in this regard as complete as possible."

The U. S., on the other hand, has abondoned its "Saint" program for satellite inspection of other satellites, thus making it impossible for us to know for sure how many weapons the Soviets are orbiting.

Dr. Sheldon, on the basis of the available evidence, concludes that Soviet space experiments are "leading toward stationing of /a/ nuclear deterrent force in orbit for a sustained period."

Godfather's Blood: organized racketeers more powerful than ever despite efforts to make Mafia gentle myth

New York:— So the "Godfather" came to town and everybody acted like it was a Saturday night wedding in old Palermo. And what could be more natural? This town is the Mafia's capital and, gory be, has been since the Grandfather Meyer Lansky was arrested twice on narcotics charges 40 years ago.

So it's all slipping into the mythology of American mores -- and the public prints and book writers are saying there is no Mafia, It's gone.

Sure it's gone -- like Mao Tse-tung is going to leave mainland China to Chinag Kai-shek in his will and thoughts.

The Mafia families are more powerful than ever. There are killers, enforcers, official corrupter lawyers, accountants, kangaroo courts, political fronts, even a few friendly members of Congress and the old Dons are still with us -- mostly in this big town. But the mob, the combine, The Organization, play the name game if you will, is around all the way from here to Texas where the operations, straight down to Galveston, still are in the hands of the combine of the late Joe Civello.

The old Dons such as Michele Miranda and Carlo Gambino are still with us. And there still is liaison with the Lansky-Switzerland operation. But there is a new breed. Younger, better educated, and most important -- not yet around long enough to have gained their kind of fame in the prints and tubes.

The Justice Dept. has hundreds of names of the younger men taking over from their actual fathers or godfathers. Furthermore, new cultural and ethnic groups are moving in for use as troops just as the old Mafia moved in on Murder, Inc., after apprenticing as troops.

So it's all a play on words. Call it what you will, the Combine --organized crime and racketeering-is more powerful than ever because its men are newer and inlegitimate business and always looking for "new stuff."

There is for example, an anti-racketeering strike force which has hard evidence that one organized crime "family" is casing New York state watching the Legislature for passage of an official gambling act a la Las Vegas or an amendment to the constitution in Nevada's image -- casinos and all. And the authorities know that this Mafia combine is looking at islands off Manhattan, or at hotels, or hotel sites all the way from Sheepshead Bay to Niagara Falls in an attempt to anticipate where the gambling casinos will be located--if approved.

This is no movie script. One of the most dedicated racket "busters" is watching closely.

From coast to coast there is such solid evidence that the crime "Organization" is functioning -- and that it is and has been a systematic, supernumerary "second," albeit underground, government.

There is no doubt --though the Mafia stopped "making" official members about the end of the '50.

The record is right out of their own mouths. There are at least 200,000 pages of transcript of FBI-bugged conversations to prove there is and always has been a Mafia infrastructure The Organization has been under electronic surveillance for over a decade.

Just look at a few words from the electronically overhead conversation of Angelo (Ray) DeCarlo, a capo in the family of the late boss of bosses Vito Genovese. De DeCarlo is up for 12 years, sent there for extortion because of the effective crusading of New Jersey's U.S. Attorney Herbert Stern. Here's the conversation as bugged by the FBI:

"Barney: 'Ray (DeCarlo), things they (the authorities--VR) speak about today. Somebody must be talking because they could never know these things. They know who's boss, underboss, the Commission, the Caporegima. They talk like that--amico nos.'

"Ray (DeCarlo alias Gyp): 'And, oh, the other guy in New York, what's his name? That was in the can with Vito (Genovese)?'

"Barney: 'Joe Cago (Valachi).'

"Ray: 'I hear he's talking like a bastard. Wasn't he amico nos?.... It is a good thing here that we got no books or anything. If we had books we'd be buried --all of us--- If they'd ever had one book you know what they'd do to us all? Just one charge they could get all of us. Secret organization. Bing. Everyone of us. Oh, if they ever had a book. They could do it, but without a book they can't prove nothin'. They got to get evidence. How's things with the Gallo brothers?...

These tapes were released January 1970. And there are tapes of such men, believed to be powerful bosses, as Ray Patriarca (New England), boss Sam DeCavalcante, of all Jersey; and Stefano Magaddino and others known mostly in the trade.

The polished new breed is heading for legitimate business-- all the way from auto agencies to banks, from beer to zinc, from crap tables to college sports.

So welcome Marlon Brando. Now go home. Enough play-acting.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Ambassador Arthur K. Watson, who has just been given the delicate assignment of establishing diplomatic contacts with the Chinese in Paris, got gloriously drunk on the flight to Washington for his conferences with President Nixon.

A number of witnesses have told us the slim, gray-haired ambassador normally the picture of dignity, kept shouting for more Scotch, grabbing the stewardesses and trying to stuff money down the fronts of their blouses.

He finally passed out, his arms and legs sprawled across the first class lounge, recall the witnesses. They say he appeared to be foamin at the mouth from white tablets he had been chewing.

Apparently, this wasn't his first drunken spree in the skies over the Atlantic. Stewardesses recall that, on an earlier flight, Watson downed nearly two pints of Scotch and two miniature bottles of champagne. He allegedly tried to recruit one stewardess as a mistress for his teen-age son and peevishly threw grapes at her after she turned down the proposition.

In Chinese eyes, drunken behavior is considered disgraceful. The Chinese love good liquor and even play drinking games. But the man who gets drunk loses the game and brings shame upon himself.

This raises the possibility that Ambassador Watson, in a bibulous state, could jeopardize the Chinese-American detente and undo the good President Nixon accomplished in Peking.

MERRY MILLIONAIRE

We have discussed Watson's liquor problem with a variety of sources. Insiders say this figures in his departure from International Business Machines (IBM), the corporate giant his late father built.

Arthur Watson's playboy ways didn't mix with Big Business, and he lost the runoff for IBM's presidency. As a consolation prize, Nixon appointed him Ambassador to France.

His only apparent qualification for the job was his enormous wealth and his willingness to share it with the Republicans. We have traced $44,000 that he contributed to the Nixon-Agnew campaign in 1968, plus another $5,000 to the general Republican cause. Again in 1970, we have found record to $21,000 that he dropped in the GOP hat.

Presumably, his pocketbook will be wide open again this year to help finance Nixon's reelection campaign.

As his reward, Watson will handle the crucial negotiations to increase trade, travel and cultural exhanges with Communist China. He will deal with China's veteran diplomat, Huang Chen, who has handled number of sensitive missions for Premier Chou En-lai. Huang is the only Chinese ambassador who belongs to the powerful central committee of the Chinese Communist Party.

We have taken testimony from several witnesses who flew with Watson aboard Pan American Airways flight 107 from London to Washington on March 9. The chief stewardess filed a complaint with Pan Am about Watson's conduct.

FLIGHT CREW MUZZLED

Pan Am, however, hushed up the report and ordered the fight crew not to discuss the incident. A company spokesman refused all comment for the protection of the witnesses, therefore, we have agreed to with hold their identities.

They all agree that Watson was drunk when he boarded the plane at 10:45 am., London time. Before the airliner left the runway, he ignored the "No Smoking" sign, propped his feet up on a lounge chair and yelled at a stewardess: "Hey you! I want a Bloddy Mary!"

When she politely declined until the plane was aloft, he shouted at her: "Who do you think you are?" Thereafter, he called her a "bitch and "stupid" and threatened to get her fired.

He kept up a holler for Scotch and grabbed at passing stewardesses . Then he tried to stuff $40 down the fronts of their blouses. Finally he passed out and slept for about three hours. He got off the plane unassisted and was met at Dulles airport by two State Department aide Robert Aylmer and Frank Dempsey.

We spoke to the American Embassy in Paris three times, but Watson was unavailable for questioning. Through an aide, he gave us a one-sentence statement that there was "no basis in fact" to the accounts of his misconduct. A State Department spokesman also said no complaints had been made.

Footnote: From other witnesses, we learned of a similiar, earlier incident aboard Pan American's flight 52 from Washington to Paris. It was on this occasion that he told a stewardess that he wanted his teen age son to develop sexually and asked her to be his mistress. Afterward, he tossed grapes at her for refusing. He was abusive and foulmouthed, the witnesses said.

Agnew Defends Wallace Against Unfair Innuendo

By JERRY BROWN
Associated Press Writer

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says Alabama Gov. George Wallace has been the subject of a lot of unfair political innuendo even though there was nothing radical about his campaigning for this week's Florida primary.

"I haven't heard him say anything that I would consider radical during that campaign," Agnew said Wednesday during a speech at Drake University in Des Moines.

But, Agnew added, "it seems to be the general impression — and this is again characteristic of the political innuendo that streaks back and forth across the nation ... that he is somewhat of a reactionary person who is trying to deprive the minority groups of their freedom and bring out the worst of their emotions, causing us to divide as a people."

Agnew said that "something Gov. Wallace was saying must have struck a responsive chord in more than just the people of one section of Florida."

Wallace received 42 per cent of the vote in Tuesday's Democratic primary in Florida. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota placed second with 18 per cent, followed by Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington at 13 per cent and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine at 9 per cent.

Agnew was critical of a statement by Muskie denouncing Wallace's victory.

"When a man wins an election he shouldn't be referred to as a demagogue," Agnew said.

Wallace will compete next in the April 4 Wisconsin primary, where he got 24 per cent of the vote in 1964. He declined to predict how well he will do this year, but said "we know that the average citizen in Wisconsin, and other states, in my judgment, feels just like they do in Florida."

However, Humphrey said he considers the issues in Wisconsin far different from those in Florida.

"I don't consider the Wisconsin electorate the same as the Florida electorate," Humphrey said at a news conferences in Milwaukee.

Wisconsin's primary includes all 11 Democrats who were on the Florida ballot plus Rep. Patsy Mink of Hawaii.

Muskie, viewed by many as the Democratic front-runner before Florida, enters Wisconsin as an underdog, according to his state campaign manager.

Muskie also is competing in next Tuesday's Illinois primary, where he is challenged on separate fronts by Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

Muskie and McGovern are competing for a share of the 160 national convention delegates who will be elected Tuesday.

Mutscher, Two Aides Sentenced

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Court Judge J. Neil Daniel sentenced House Speaker Gus Mutscher and his two aides to five years probated sentences in the state penitentiary today.

The defense had asked that the jury be dismissed and that the judge assess punishment for Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and Mutscher administrative aide Rush McGinty.

Chief Prosecutor Bob Smith said he would have no objection in view of the fact that a "coconspirator" in the case, Houston promoter Frank Sharp, had been given a probated sentence in Houston on two minor banking violation changes.

The three were convicted Wednesday of agreeing among themselves to accept unsecured loans from Sharp's bank in exchange for their help in 1969 in passing two banking bills.

The state alleged they used the loans to purchase stock in a Sharp-controlled insurance company and then, after the banking bills passed, sold the stock for large profits.

Mutscher was asked if he would resign his office as speaker.

"I have a high regard for the office. I'll have an announcement to make in the next few days," Mutscher said.

Approximately 50 character witnesses for the defense were in the courtroom, including about 30 state legislators.

Their testimony was not required in view of the state's failure to object to the defense request for probation.

Lawyers for all three defendants said they will still appeal the verdict.

Bicentennial Planning Stamped 'Top Secret'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A disbelieving congressional prober wants to know why the commission planning America's 200th birthday party has been granted power to stamp its documents "top secret."

Chairman William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., of the House government information subcommittee, asked Jack LeVant, executive director of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission:

"Did the military-industrial complex in charge of the American Revolution incur huge cost-overruns as they have in all succeeding wars including the current 'cold war'?

"Did your historians uncover embarrassing errors during the American Revolution which you want to hide behind a secrecy stamp while we are commemorating the 200th anniversary?

"What other reason can there be for the...commission having authority to stamp 'top secret,' 'secret,' and 'confidential' on its documents?"

Moorhead said his subcommittee asked all government agencies to identify those empowered to use stamps to protect national-defense information. Hugh A. Hall, acting executive director of the commission, said LeVant has the authority.

But a commission spokesman, Dan Buser, said: "It has never been and is not the intention of this commission to make anything secret."

Buser said that at no time had the commission requested the need for a secret stamp.

"I've never seen a 'top secret' stamp in our organization since I've been here. I don't recall anyone doing anything secret in the Bicentennial Commission."

Moorhead said in a letter to he commission: "The attitude of the secrecy-minded bureaucrats who think that the American people do not have a right to know the facts of government is implicit in the contention that your agency can wield the secrecy stamps classifying government information.

"The attitude is absurd, but the attitude also is dangerous."

LeVant was out of the country and not available for comment.

Nixon Refuses To Release Aid Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has refused to release documents on U.S. aid and information programs in Cambodia on grounds they are "internal documents" that do not represent official administration policy.

The President's decision was delivered to Chairman William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., of the House Government Information subcommittee just before midnight Wednesday at his Georgetown home.

Moorhead has invoked a 1961 law cutting off U.S. foreign aid at midnight unless the documents he had requested were delivered or the President had sent a certified message on the reasons he was refusing to deliver them.

Moorhead's staff said all U.S. aid around the world would have halted at midnight without the letter; the administration said only aid to Cambodia was involved.

The nature of the requested documents has not been disclosed but a memorandum prepared by Moorhead's subcommittee staff indicated the aid documents dealt with decisions on the type of American aid being furnished to Cambodia.

Moorhead's subcommittee deals with foreign operations and government information.

Golda Meir Brushes Off Hussein Proposal

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Golda Meir today brushed off King Hussein's Palestinian proposal as a gimmick and said he would get the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River only by negotiating a peace treaty with Israel.

Mrs. Meir told Israel's parliament that her government will remain the sole ruler of the territory seized from Jordan in the 1967 war until peace is achieved "through serious negotiation."

Hussein proposed Wednesday to establish a semiautonomous state of Palestine on the West Bank and join it with the rest of Jordan under his reign once Israel gave it up.

Debt Ceiling Hike Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has signed a bill permitting a $20-billion increase in the national debt ceiling, bringing it to $450 billion.

The White House said today the President signed the measure Wednesday night, a few hours after it passed Congress.

Swinger Got Caught

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I was fascinated by the letter from "Swinger's Wife," because I saw myself between the lines. My swinger was 73 years old. For the last six years of his life he spent every weekend with his girl friend. They took plane trips everywhere -- attended boxing matches, football games, went hunting, trout fishing, swimming, golfing, to the sea shore and the mountains. Just name it and they went.

Several months ago he had a heart attack at a bingo game in another city. His picture was in the paper --being carried out on a stretcher. Some idiot newspaper reporter made a very funny story out of it. It was picked up by our local press. Well, it wasn't so funny when that picture appeared in the paper with his girlfriend draper over him. His children didn't laugh very much and neither did I. The heart attack wasn't serious but he couldn't hold his head up after that. He died a year later and I think that's what killed him.

I hope every swinger realizes what a risk he is taking when he fools around. ---Swinger's Widow.

Dear Friend-- Thanks for writing. And now a word to you swingers: But for the grace of God it could have been you. Scary, isn't it?

Dear Ann Landers: I am so mad I could spit nails. Store hours are printed in great big block letters on the front door: OPEN FROM 9:30 A.M. UNTIL 5:30 P.M. Yet almost every evening someone meanders in at 5:25 and keeps me there until 5:40 or later. I don't get paid extra for overtime work, but I have to do it anyway. Is this fair?

After putting in a full day with the loony public I'm plenty glad to see the doors close. Yet I haven't been out of this place at 5:30 in three months. I would appreciate it if you'd print my letter and clobber the slobs. ---Utica Gripe.

Dear U. Gripe: It's obvious that you aren't the boss, and with your attitude you'll NEVER be one. The purpose of retail establishments is to accommodate customers. Without customers a store can't stay in business.

A competent employee is interested in moving merchandise. He doesn't resent staying with a customer who is buying, or even looking. He should be willing to give courteous and helpful service even if it's inconvenient for him. I don't know how old you are or how long you've been a sales clerk but I suggest you look for another job. Clock-watchers don't enjoy their work and they shouldn't be serving the public.

Dear Ann Landers: As a stepmother who is about to celebrate her third wedding anniversary, I'd like to pass on the benefit of my experience. It was a second marriage for both Rod and me. We each had a son. Here are some simple rules, which, if followed, will reap rich rewards:

(1) Refuse to argue with or defend yourself against the ex-wife or her relatives. You can't win and there's no chance that you'll come out looking good. Refer all questions, complaints and requests to your spouse.

(2) Never compromise or give in to a stepchild because you think it will curry favor. He'll respect and love you more if you are firm but fair.

(3) When a child awakens during the night, let the step-parent comfort him. It will create afeeling of confidence and trust.

My husband's mother said to me recently, "You're lucky your son Billy and Rod's son Johnny like each other." I told her, "It wasn't luck. They had no choice. We are a family. All members of our family must work together and play together." Spread this gospel, will you, Ann? --Success In Schenectady

Dear Friend: Nothing succeeds like success. Consider it spread.

---

St. Patrick's Day on March 17 is believed to be the date of his death in A.D. 461, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Trend Toward Romantic Decorating Predicted

If you want to know how a trend in decorating begins, just ask Ellen Lehman McCluskey, one of the world's most versatile interior designers. She predicts we are heading toward a romantic age in decorating. And she is helping it evolve.

"It is happening because the world needs coziness. People are ready for it because we all want to shut out unpleasantries and envelop ourselves in cocoons," says the blonde dynamo who began the tented look in furnishings.

Restaurants, clubs, yachts, health spas and homes are being swaddled in tents, upholstered walls and nostalgic accessories. Mrs. McCluskey also sees a revival of lace curtains and peach bedrooms, all part of a romantic scene. And in the dining room the use of multi-tables will provide intimacy and coziness for home dinner parties.

Whether it is a pied-a-terre in New York City or a 54-room Tudor mansion in Greenwich, Conn., or hotels in Hamburg, London, Nassau and Caracas, each place Mrs. McCluskey has decorated with that romantic look will have its stamp of individuality.

It may take a cultural twist as it did in the lobby of the Oaks Hotel in Houston, Tex., where the walls are decorated in 18th century art bought at local art galleries. It might be an old German look for a hotel in Hamburg, or a hunting lodge look for a hotel-motel in Toronto.

Men like her decoration because it isn't frilly. Women like it because the backgrounds flatter their fashion and makeup. She uses red, a flattering color for women, in many man-frequented public places.

Mrs. McCluskey's biggest office job to date — 20 executive offices and 26 dining rooms for McGraw-Hill — will stress the eclectic look because all the men except two chose traditional furnishings. Each office will be different, but each one will be as warmly decorated as possible.

Brownies Receive Awards During Girl Scout Week

Brownie Troop 132 of Southeast Elementary school Tuesday received individual American flags as awards for studying the history of the flag.

They also learned the meaning of the pledge of allegiance, flag etiquette, what the flag colors mean and what the 13 stripes represent. They learned the Star Spangled Banner and who wrote it.

The flags were presented by Pat Lea, and Lee Shell.

Their leaders are Glenda Bridges and Millie Nanney.

Blind Woman Weaves

KITCHENER, Canada (AP) — Christine Breadner has woven and knitted hundreds of things, but she has never seen one of them with her eyes — only with her sensitive fingers.

Miss Breadner is blind and almost totally deaf as the result of a progressive disease she contracted as a child. She lives at Huronia Hall, a residence for the sightless.

She learned to knit and weave 15 years ago, beginning with plain mats and handbags made on a hand loom.

About 10 years ago she bought her own complex foot loom from money she had earned selling her handicrafts. Until then she had used a loom leased by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

She threads the hettles at the front of the loom and passes the 224 threads through to the back of the loom for an assistant to thread the beater. Once the loom is threaded, she cranks it up herself to get the correct tension.

Some of her more complicated patterns involve using four or five colors, but once the pattern is started by sighted persons, she can complete it. She "sees" the pattern with her fingers.

"I prefer weaving to knitting because in weaving you can 'see' the mistakes with your fingers and can correct them."

Miss Breadner works four or five hours a day at her loom and then often works in the residence workshop, assembling candy dividers, reading in braille or typing letters.

Her weaving is sold at the residence craft shop and at their annual bazaar.

Straw-Ballot Totals Tallied

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Here are the returns from nearly 100 per cent of Florida's 2,841 precincts on the three straw-ballot questions:

Whether to prohibit forced busing of school children: Yes 1,110,219-74 per cent: no 386,99126 per cent

Whether to provide equal opportunity for quality education for all children: Yes 1,066,844-79 per cent: no 291,656-21 per cent

A LOW INCOME housing development on North Lincoln Avenue in East Prairie will be open to the public Sunday.

Open House Sunday At East Prairie

EAST PRAIRIE — An open house will be held Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the new low-income housing development on North Lincoln Avenue.

The site contains 48 housing units for the elderly. These units are contained in 17 one-story buildings and vary from efficiency apartments in quadruplex buildings to two bedroom apartments in duplex buildings.

Some units will be identified as display homes and will be furnished for the open house.

Flag raising ceremonies will open the activities at 2 p.m., at which Mrs. Willis Friend, the first tenant, will raise the American flag and a Missouri State flag in front of the community building. The flags have been presented to the housing authority by Congressman Bill Burlison and State Rep. Fred DeField. The American flag has flown over the United States capitol in Washington D.C. and the state flag has flown over the state capitol in Jefferson City.

Members of the Woman's Improvement club and the Business and Professional Women's club will serve as hostesses and guides in the display homes and serve refreshments throughout the afternoon in the community building.

According to Mrs. Dorothy Dismukes, executive director of the housing project, 500 to 600 are expected to visit the area.

Ark-Mo Avoids Gas Shortages

KENNETT — Arkansas - Missouri Power Company officials have ventured $4 million to insure that they, unlike other gas distributors in Missouri, will not have to stop connecting any new customers.

John H. "Jack" Germain, vice-president of the engineering and purchasing department of Ark-Mo at Blytheville, Ark., told members of the Kennett Lions Club Friday that is the cost of the liquefield natural gas facility being constructed in Blytheville.

Germain said there is now a supply of liquid gas in the storage tank and vaporizing equipment, used to change the liquid back into gas, is being tested.

"With any luck, we will be able to provide full service on any cold day in the remainder of this winter season," he said. He noted the facility should be in full operation by next winter.

He said the decision to construct the liquefied gas facility came about due to a study initiated in 1969. The study showed Ark-Mo could increase the cold day supply of gas despite the fact there could be no increase in gas supply for this area.

Germain said the company can take the gas in warm months, store it, and make it available to supplement the deficient pipeline supply on the coldest days each winter. This supplemental supply will enable the company to continue to add new residential and commercial customers for about five more years and possibly the company will then be able to negotiate an additional supply for the system.

"Despite all possible efforts," Germain said, "the plant was not in service in mid-January when the coldest weather moved in. Fortunately, it was not as cold as it occasionally gets in this area, but we were still faced with a problem that could have been most serious."

"We discontinued service to all interruptible customers and even curtailed firm industrial customers," he continued. "When this was obviously not enough, we appealed to all others to reduce thermostat settings five degrees. The response was tremendous and we estimated that our system demand was reduced about five million cubic feet. Thus we were able to get by — but let me assure you, that with each report of an approaching cold wave, we really got a chill — knowing that our pipeline supply is not adequate for the potential requirements."

"Frankly, we are quite proud of our program because we are head and shoulders ahead of any others around us," he said.

"We hope that you, our customers, understand that we are doing everything possible — and far more than most — to take care of our service obligations."

Jack Anderson Special

McGraw-Hill editor caught in kickback deal; Worked on the 'Hughes' and 'Red Fox' books; took ten per cent from a nazi horror victim.

WASHINGTON — The giant McGraw-Hill publishing empire, already stained by faked memoirs of Howard Hughes and a 102 -year- old Indian, has now been splashed with a new scandal.

Its highly-respected trade books editor -in- chief, who edited both the Hughes memoirs and the bestselling tale of Chief Red Fox, has been accused of taking what looks suspiciously like a $1,700 kickback.

The editor in question is Robert Stewart, the brainy, charming man brought in by McGraw-Hill to get its fiction and non-fiction books on the bestseller lists. In 1969, he was working on "The Book of Alfred Kantor," a powerful picture story of Nazi concentration camps.

Stewart had life or death control over whether Kantor's book would be published, when it would go to the printers and how much it would be promoted by McGraw-Hill. Publishing ethics demand an arms-length financial position by editors toward their writers.

Yet, Stewart took $1,275 from Kantor, the ex-camp inmate, and $425 from John Wykert, who helped sell the book and worked on the text with Kantor. We have a copy of Wykert's check to editor Stewart.

Whether the money was a kickback, a loan, a gift or an "editorial fee" -- it amounts to 10 per cent of the $17,--- advance -- is in dispute now within the huge McGraw-Hill corporate skyscraper in New York City.

Wykert has called variously a "kickback," a "gift" and an "editorial fee" in his talks with us. Kantor will only say it was "voluntary." McGraw-Hill president Harold McGraw, Jr., says he and Stewart regard it is a "loan." And we have another cancelled check dated 14 months after the money passed hands to show Stewart paid back to Wykert $420.

But in a conversation with us, McGraw nervously said Stewart's action was at best unwise. "I cannot condone the judgement" of Stewart, he asserted. "I am investigation."

McGraw met secretly with Wykert on Saturday and plans other meetings with Stewart and Kantor. Wykert, who first raised the question of unethical behavior, says he has no evidence that any money passed hands on the Hughes or Indian books.

"Look," he snorted. "Stewart's not going to do that to a Nabokov (a famous Novelist-Poet). He's only going to do it to a schmegeggi (simpleton) like me." Stewart would not return our calls to him.

Temptations Strong But Reagan Rules Out Acting

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says the ham in him thinks playing the screen role of Gen. Douglas MacArthur would be "a wonderful thing to do," but he has no plans to return to the movies.

"No. No acting for me," the 61-year-old Reagan said as he discussed the frustrations of office and his plans for the future in an interview Monday.

Had he ever thought about making "just one more" movie after leaving the governorship in late 1974?

"Oh, the thought has entered the mind and you think especially of some part that you think might tie in to what you are doing, but I know I can't do it. I don't want to do it," he said.

But Reagan, who made more than 50 films during his movietelevision career, said the ham in him made him wish he could have done the title role of "Patton," which won the Academy Award as the best picture of 1970.

Then he mused, "There is another one. When I think of the story that could be done on the same basis of MacArthur, coming to a close with that speech."

Reagan referred to the "old soldiers never die" address MacArthur made before Congress after being relieved by President Harry S. Truman as commander of U.S. forces in the Korean War.

"You can't have been an actor very long without saying that would be a wonderful thing to do," said Reagan, still darkhaired and handsome after five years as California's chief executive.

Reagan said he was "part of the whole planning of Patton" and "I would have done anything in the world" to have played the title role.

One day, he related, he told his friend, producer Frank McArthy, "Whoever plays this part but me, I will hate him for the rest of my life."

"And I wrote to Scott afterward and told him that I hate him now—for proving no one else but him should have done the part," Reagan said with a smile.

George C. Scott was voted an Academy Award as best actor of the year for the role, but declined to accept the Oscar.

Reagan has vowed to serve just two four-year terms as governor. After that, he's "keeping my options open" including a possible try for the U.S. Senate in 1974.

"I'm not going to speculate," Reagan said. "I'm going to see how I feel as I come closer to the day. I can't really believe that I will want to put down totally my interest in public life."

Insurance Agents At Cape Session

CAPE GIRARDEAU — About 100 area life insurance agents will attend a sales seminar Friday at Southeast Missouri State College.

Participating with the college's department of business administration and business education in sponsoring the seminar are the Southeast Missouri Life Underwriters' Association, the Cape Girardeau Life Underwriters' Association, and Poplar Bluff Life Underwriters' Association, and the Five States' Chapter of Certified Life Underwriters.

The seminar in the ballroom of Memorial Hall on the campus will begin with registration at 9 a. m. Opening speaker at the morning session will be E. Victor Williams, an assistant professor of business at Southeast Missouri State.

Dr. Gene A. Loftis, head of the department of business administration and business education at Southeast Missouri State, will preside over a luncheon at noon.

Presiding over portions of the program will be Alex Cantrell, general agent for Continental Assurance Company and president of the Cape Girardeau Life Underwriters' Association; Sonny P. Aydt, general manager for Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Cape Girardeau; and Donald B. Wall of Kennett, a State Farm agent and president of the Southeast Missouri Life Underwriters' Association.

Scientists maintain that the human brain can retain about 10 million bits of information which it can retrieve at random. The World Almanac notes that the famous English naturalist Charles Darwin once professed: "The brain of an ant is one of the most marvelous atoms of matter in the world, perhaps more so than the brain of man."

U.S. Cuts Funds For Bangladesh

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has canceled more than 60 per cent of the $158 million President Nixon has said was committed for humanitarian relief in Bangladesh, State Department officials say.

Although department spokesman Charles W. Bray stated earlier this week that the $158million figure is an "accurate statement of the commitment," other officials now indicate $97.8 million has been cut off "because it is no longer needed."

The disclosure seems sure to rekindle the quarrel between the department and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who has accused the administration of misleading the public over the American commitment to the nation formerly known as East Pakistan.

Department sources told The Associated Press $44.2 million in food and a small amount of home-building materials were delivered to East Pakistan between November 1970 when the nation was devestated by a cyclone and December 1971 when the Indian-Pakistani war broke out.

Since aid was resumed this year, the officials said, about $16 million has been delivered, is on the way or is available for shipment.

"The rest of it has been canceled," one State Department official said, because the original purpose of the assistance, to prevent famine, has been accomplished.

One source was asked why, if the $97.8 million were no longer necessary, President Nixon had asked Congress this week for $100 million more for South Asia relief. The source replied that the President's new request will provide a margin to meet new conditions as they arise in Bangladesh, while the previously committed aid was for a problem now solved.

Cross swiming class. While here he meet Ray Melton, superintendant of the R-2 school district, accepted a job offer and now calls East Prairie home.

"I had two years in pre-pharmacy at Memphis State and the University of Tennessee., when I entered the army and after spending two years in France in public relations I returned to Memphis and through my work with children overseas, I decided to change my major to elementary education," Euer said. Following graduation he taught grades one through six at Trenor Private school in Memphis for one year prior to moving to East Praiire.

While in Memphis the mayor presented him keys to the city for his work with under priviledged children.

His plans for summer vacation are laid out. For the fifth year he will be assistant director at Camp Waupaca, a private boys camp in Wisconsin; teach for the fourth year a learn to swim class in East Prairie; continue his Boy Scout program; serve as water safety instructor for Mississippi county and preside as Kiwanis club president.

When asked how he found time to accomplish so much he answered;

"Things you enjoy, you find time for and when you feel they are appreciated, it makes it all worth while."

Each undertaking is planned and recorded on paper, another time consuming job.

His answer to that, "I type fast."

A rare man, is Mike Euer.

Indians Ready For Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Start the season, Mr. Schedulemaker. Two of Cleveland's most important Indians are ready right now.

Distressed over the poorest record in baseball last season, General Manager Gabe Paul did a little shopping over the winter and came up with a couple of big names—pitcher Gaylord Perry and outfielder Alex Johnson.

Perry, acquired from San Francisco for Sam McDowell in an exchange of pitching superstars, must assume Sudden Sam's position of leadership of the staff. And he showed he was ready for that challenge with six shutout innings in Cleveland's 8-2 victory over San Diego in an exhibition game Wednesday.

Johnson, the American League's batting champion two years ago,but a washout last season, jolted his second homer of the spring and added a single. And nobody said a thing about his hustle.

Johnny Bench, as might be expected, and Bobby Brooks, as might not be expected, both had two homers apiece in Wednesday's action.

Bench, Cincinnati's slugging catcher, connected twice against Baltimore, driving in three Reds' runs.

Brooks, a non-roster outfielder trying to win a spot with the Oakland A's, drilled his second and third homers of the spring and added a single, driving in four runs in a 12-1 romp over California.

Joe Rudi, Brant Alyea and rookie Greg Schubert also homered for Oakland.

Rookie Carlton Fisk, mired in a 1-for-15 spring slump, snapped out of it with a two-run homer that gave Boston a 2-0 decision over St. Louis—the fifth straight loss for the Cardinals.

The Chicago Cubs managed only one hit over the first six innings but packed nine runs in their last two swings for an 11-2 victory over the Tokyo Lotte Orions.

Shortstop Rick Auerbach collected four consecutive singles as Milwaukee's 15-hit attack wore down San Francisco 9-4.

Johnny Edwards drove in three runs with a single and double as Houston blanked Atlanta 4-0.

Norm Cash and Aurelio Rodriguez cracked home runs and Detroit thumped Kansas City 62.

Four Pittsburgh errors—two of them wild pickoff throws by pitcher Jim Nelson—helped the New York Mets to a 9-4 victory over the Pirates.

The Phillies took the Chicago White Sox 8-6, taking control with a three-run sixth inning against Joe Horlen.

Don Sutton and Claude Osteen shared a five-hitter as the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Montreal 5-0.

The New York Yankees suffered their fifth shutout in 13 spring starts from Minnesota.

Stars To Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD — Southeast Missouri basketball fans will have the opportunity to catch the Harlem Stars in action March 24 at 8 p.m. when the clowns of the hardwood display their talents in the high school gymnasium. Game time will be at 8 p.m., but don't miss the pre-game warm-up. The Stars are a combination of basketball stars touring the world making fans laugh.

"The world is our audience," says Owner Boid Buie. "Send fans home laughing, and we can continue to return for years to come," he said.

The Stars never try to run up a huge score against opponents. It is their policy to keep the game close, devoting much time to comedy.

WINS OUTDOOR PRIZE

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — "My Pal, My Son," a 27-minute 16 mm color film featuring Jerry Chiappetta and his son, Jerry, 10, on a fishing excursion into the Canadian wilderness, won first prize in the 1971 National Travel-Outdoors Film Festival.

THREE RIVERS COMMUNITY COLLEGE signed its first basketball prospect for next year as Charleston's Albri Cassell inked a letter of intent for Raider coach Gene Bess this weekend. Cassell as an outstanding performer for the Charleston squad throughout his career as a Bluejay, and will join former teammate, Henry Hall, a freshman on the Raider's team this season.

Torre Ready To Pinch Hit

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Joe Torre was scheduled today for pinch-hitting, perhaps just the tonic the St. Louis Cardinals need to burst out of a tedious slump in major league spring training.

The Cards, punchless without the bat of the National League MVP in 1971, bowed again Wednesday to the Boston Red Sox 2-0, collecting only five hits.

The Red Sox managed only three off as many Cardinal hurlers, but one was a home run by rookie Carlton Fisk that followed Mike Fiore's single in the eighth. Jose Cruz had two of the hits for the Cards, who have scored only five runs in losing all five exhibition games. The club is scoreless the last 21 innings.

"I'd rather be 0-5 now than 05 April 12," Coach Ken Boyer commented, however. Bob Gibson and reliever Joe Grzenda were scheduled to pitch this afternoon at Al Lang Field against the Houston Astros.

Busch Ready For Strike

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Major league owners should call the hand of the Baseball Players Association in demands for more pension fund money, St. Louis Cardinals owner August A. Busch Jr. said Wednesday.

"I'm against knuckling under—and you can quote me," Busch told St. Louis GlobeDemocrat sports writer Jack Herman in reference to demands by the association for $700,000 annual pension increases.

The Cardinals and eight other clubs have voted to strike, possibly before the season begins, unless club owners boost their annual pension contributions to $6.1 million.

"I think the fans are getting fed up with this side of baseball," Busch said. "I'm certainly not going to offset the money we pay the players by increasing our ticket prices."

State Fair Eliminated

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Top-seeded Vincennes, Ind., defeated Paducah, Ky., 96-85 and Gulf Coast, Fla., nipped Casper, Wyo., 89-86 in double overtime in the second round of the National Junior College Basketball Tournament Wedne day night.

In a loser's bracket game, Dalton, Ga., ousted State Fair of Sedalia, Mo., 90-83.

Seminole, Okla., edged Burlington, Iowa, 59-56 and Tyler, Tex., whipped Robert Morris of Carthage, Ill., 95-79 to round out first-round play in day games.

Bill Butler poured in 34 points to top Vincennes which pulled away from Paducah in the second half. Alvin Hendricks was high point man for Paducah.

Joe Johnson's tip-in with 27 seconds left in the second overtime was the margin of Gulf Coast's victory. The teams were tied 72-72 at the end of regulation play and 80-80 after the first overtime period. Butch Taylor finished with 21 points for Gulf Coast; Ken Morgan had 19 for Casper.

Four losers' bracket games were on tap this afternoon. Arizona Western met Erie, N.Y.; Burlington, Iowa, played Carthage, Ill.; Paducah faced Casper, and Hutchinson was against Ulster County, N.Y.

Tonight's quarter-finals finds Southern Idaho and Ferrum, W.Va., playing and Seminole and Tyler meeting.

UCLA Begins Defense Of Championship

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Weber State's basketball team is short, slow and can't shoot very well.

But the Wildcats last weekend demolished a tall, quick Hawaii team that averaged 92 points a game.

Tonight, the Wildcasts, 18-9, meet No. 1 UCLA, who have won 26 games this year without a loss and have a 41-game victory streak, in the first game of the opening round of the NCAA Far-West Regional tournament.

The Bruins are seeking their eighth NCAA title in nine seasons.

Long Beach State, 24-3, meets San Francisco, 19-7, in the second game and the winners collide on national television Saturday.

Weber ranked seventh in the Big Sky conference in shooting accuracy but was 10th in the nation in defense, holding opponents to under 65 points a game.

Sophomore Makes All-America Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walton, UCLA's lantern-jawed tower of strength, and Dwight Lamar, the nation's leading scorer from Southwestern Louisiana, were named today to the Associated Press' 1971-72 AllAmerica basketball team.

The two stars, both dominating forces in their regions, were joined by Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State, Jim Chones of Marquette's and Tom Riker of South Carolina.

Walton, a 6-foot-11 center and the only sophomore on the first team, has been compared favorably to Kareem Abdul Jabber (nee Lew Alcindor) and Bill Russell in their college days.

"I've never seen a player who makes the outlet pass and starts the fast break as well," said UCLA Coach John Wooden, who coached Jabbar and saw Russell play at San Francisco.

Lamar, one of the best shooters in the country in recent history, could become the only player to win the scoring title in both the college and university divisions. The 6-foot-1 ace was the college division leader last season when the Ragin' Cajuns were in that class and appears well on his way this year now that they've stepped up to major college status. He's averaging 36.7 a game in his junior year.

Ratleff, a junior guard who averaged almost 22 points a game this year, also was one of the team's toughest rebounders. Strong and quick at 6-6, Ratleff has been described as the best college guard in America since the day of Oscar Robertson and Jerry West.

The 6-11 Chones was Marquette's big strength before signing with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association late in the season. Before leaving college, he scored almost 21 points and averaged 12 rebounds in 21 games of his junior season.

The 6-10 Riker, the only senior on the big team, was an outstanding forward in clutch situations. He averaged nearly 20 points and 10 rebounds a game.

"He's the best pro prospect in the country," said South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire of the beefy Riker.

Based on votes from sports writers and broadcasters around the nation, the second team All-America included Barry Parkhill of Virginia, Dwight Davis of Houston, Jim Price of Louisville, Henry Bibby of UCLA and Robert McAdoo of North Carolina.

The third team included Richie Fuqua of Oral Roberts; Princeton's Brian Taylor; Maryland's Tom McMillen; Bud Stallworth of Kansas, and Wil Robinson of West Virginia.

Liquor Supervisor Pressures Sportservice

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Detailed disclosures of persons owning financiial interests in its operations were demanded Tuesdday from Sportservice Corp., food and drink concessionaire at the city's major sports facilitids.

State liquor supervisor Courtney Goodman Jr. said the corporation, a subsidiary of Emprise Corp., failed to list individuals who have interests in the parent company in its current application for beer and liquor licenses.

Unless the disclosures accompany the next application, he said, Sportservice may be unable to obtain a new license in July.

Goodman, appointed liquor supervisor last month, said last week he would attempt to put subsidiaries of Emprise out of business in Missouri if the parent company is discovered to have hoodlum ties.

Sportservice operates concessions at Busch Memorial Stadium and the Arena and has concessions also at Kiel Auditorium through its subsidiary, Missouri Sportservice, Inc.

Another Emprise subsidiary, B & L Concessions, does business in Kansas City.

NCAA Tourney Begins

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Prolific Southwestern Louisiana and super shooter Dwight Lamar will be in the limelight tonight in first-round play in the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament.

The Ragin' Cajuns, playing their first year in the university division, take a 24-3 record record and an eighth ranking into the regional opener against fourth-rated Louisville, 22-3.

A pair of unranked teams— Texas, 19-7, and Big Eight Conference champion Kansas State, 18-8,—slug it out in the other game in the new Hilton Coliseum on the Iowa State University campus.

"We didn't scout Southwestern, but we know they are a fine shooting ball club," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum, who is seeking a regional title that probably would match his team against top-ranked UCLA.

Crum, who was an assistant at UCLA under Johnny Wooden, said he expected Southwestern to employ a fast-breaking type of game.

"Our defense this season has been pretty good," Crum noted, "but we haven't faced anybody that scores like Southwestern."

Southwestern finished second nationally in scoring with a 97.8 point mark and upped that regular season average with a 112-101 bouncing of No. 12 Marshall in a regional qualifying game last Saturday.

Southwestern's attack is led by Junior Lamar, who was the nation's leading scorer with a 36.7 average, and 6-foot-9 Roy Ebron, a 61 per cent shooter from the floor who has averaged 23.6 points and 14 rebounds.

Lamar has hit 40 or more points 12 times and twice scored 51 points as his team ran up scores of more than 100 on 12 occasions.

"We turned the ball over quite a bit against Marshall," said Southwestern Coach Berly Shipley.

FAYE AND EARL McCONNELL and Gerald and Judy McConnell accept a check presented by Dennis Greenway, right, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for outstanding sales performance.

Sales Award To McConnells

The McConnell brothers, Earl and Gerald, owners of McConnels Magnavox Home Entertainment Center in the Kingsway Plaza Mall were presented with a check for more than $2,400 for sales by Dennis Greenway, regional sales manager for the Magnavox Company in Fort Wayne, Ind.

"The check is in recognition for the outstanding sales record the McConnels achieved in 1971," Greenway said. "Their sales have increased 36.5 per cent since their move to the Kingsway Plaza Mall."

"We feel by being located at the Mall therefore getting the increased exposure to the public, has been one of the factors contributing to this extra business," Earl McConnell said.

"Magnavox is proud of these two McConnell brothers, and their wives, Faye and Judy, too, for the excellent job they've done in 1971," Greenway said. "January and February 1972 sales figure showed a 28.3 per cent increase over 1971.

Mental Illness Divorce Barrier

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Howard, by nature, was a gentle, kind and considerate soul. Overwork, however, and severe financial reverses, suddenly and completely reversed his entire disposition to the point that, emotionally, he was closer to the edge than Columbus ever got. And, it was his poor wife Hilda who caught the brunt of it. Not only did he become highly critical of her, but he also became extremely jealous and began to accuse her of having affairs with the butcher, the baker and the electrician. Finally, unable to take it any longer, Hilda sued to end their marriage.

"My husband's jealousy is driving me mad," she complained in court. "We went to a party the other night and when he heard me mention Michael Angelo, he promptly accused me of carrying on with both of them."

"How was I supposed to know who Michael Angelo was," Howard replied; "Lately, I've been having enough trouble trying to remember who I am. Under the circumstances, my wife shouldn't be allowed to walk out on me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you free Hilda from her suspicious husband?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when a person is suffering from a mental illness, he is not accountable for his actions. Divorces, noted the judge, are granted because of the fault of a person and not for his misfortunes. (Based upon a 1964 Missouri Court of Appeals D[illegible]ision)

Theodore Roosevelt proposed a "New Nationalism" policy in 1910, requesting that the U.S. government initiate progressive reforms in the interest of public welfare. Roosevelt asked for federal regulation and control of corporations and conservation of natural resources, reforms he felt state governments could not legislate effectively. The World Almanac says.

JAMES THE ELDER

James, the son of Zebedee and the brother of John, was probably know to Jesus from childhood. His parents, Zebedee and Salome, were regarded as kinsfolk of Joseph and Mary. This family was eager, aggressive, and determined about the Good News of Jesus. Perhaps too strong, like the time that James suggested that Jesus call down fire upon an insulting Samaritan village that would not receive the Apostles. Or the occasion when he and brother John challenged the credentials of someone healing in Jesus' name. Small wonder they were called "sons of thunder."

Mother Salome was not bashful either, asking for top positions in the coming Kingdom for her boys. Yet, for all the faults and self-seeking, this was a gallant and courageous crew. James the Elder was a true witness for the Christ, being the first of the disciples to die for the faith.

Bid To Tighten Drunken Driver Law Advances

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill to make it easier to crack down on drunken drivers won first round approval in the Missouri Senate Tuesday without a whisper of opposition.

It was advanced to position for passage on a unanimous voice vote.

Under present law a driver with .15 of 1 per cent of alcohol in his blood is considered intoxicated. The bill advanced today would lower the standard to .10 of 1 per cent of alcohol.

Sen. James A. Noland, ROsage Beach, noted alcohol has been blamed for many traffic deaths and many states have adopted the .10 of 1 per cent standard recommended by safety experts.

There was no debate—a sharp contrast with the situation when the .15 of 1 per cent law was passed. That took days of argument.

The Senate also started debate on a "mini" no-fault divorce bill sponsored by Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, but had to lay it over when a legal question arose.

The bill would add two grounds for divorce——incompatibility leading to a breakdown of a marriage and irreconcilable differences causing an irremedial breakdown in the opinion of the court.
